250,000 NAZIS FACE TRAP IN RUSSIA

3 MORE TOWNS CAPTURED BY FIFTH ARMY

Bridgeheads Across Garigliano Driven To Depth of Two Miles.

By the Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Italy, Jan. 20—The American Fifth army in Italy enlarged its bridgehead above the Garigliano river to a depth of two miles in places after capturing three more towns in addition to the Germans admitted they had abandoned Minturno stronghold along the Appian way.

Front dispatches announcement that troops of the Fifth army had enveloped the villages of Tufo and Suio—the latter Tufo carrying the Appian way itself—that the battle for Minturno was under way. Later Bertinoro town had been evacuated.

Nazi Defense Strong

Strong opposition was reported all along the front of at least seven miles where the British began their drive Monday night.

Scene of Cassino, now under heavy allied artillery fire, Yank patrols have crossed the Rapido river to probe out German defenses. Still farther inland French troops of the Fifth army are in contact with the enemy.

The British crossing of the Garigliano river first action on this front in two months, was launched under cover of a smoke screen, and was supported by an amphibious operation in which Canadian troops were moved by sea to a point on the Tyrrhenian coast to outflank the river's mouth.

Some troops moved across the stream on rafts and small boats while others swam the river. The river averages 70 yards in width where it reaches and is too deep for wading.

Rail Routes Bombed

Following up the successful bombing of the major rail routes from the north into Rome by air bombardment, allied bombers struck at airfields in the vicinity of the Italian capital itself, hitting the Ciampino airdrome outside the city and the Centocelle field.

Fighters also scored hits on the Littorio field, 65 miles north of Rome, and on rail yards at Orte, 46 miles east of Florence.

Bridges and dispersal areas at Viterbo and Orvieto north of Rome, bombers, in heavy attacks on northern Italy, have been carrying supplies from Rome to German troops facing the advancing Fifth army.

WARN BRITAIN OF PEACE TALK

People Told Propaganda Is Inspired by German Sources.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 20 — Britons were warned today to be on guard against a wave of insidious peace-talk propaganda inspired by the Germans as rumors printed earlier in the week by Pravda continued to have repercussions in both London and Moscow.

The warning, voiced by the London press, coincided with a similar admonition by the Moscow magazine "war and the working class," which called for cleansing of the political atmosphere from "poisonous gases" spread by the Nazis in an effort to split the allies.

The Soviet publication declared the Moscow and Teheran conferences had fore-doomed German attempts to sow disunion, but added "the peoples of the countries allied with us and their responsible leaders must understand the efforts being made by Nazi elements."

The article appeared to be an attempt to dispel the impression created by the Communist organ Pravda, which published a rumor Monday that the British had secretly been discussing possible peace terms with German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Although the rumor was denied immediately by the British foreign office, a dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore in Moscow last night said the relationship between Russia and her allies was the biggest single topic of conversation there.

"The subject has the whole town jittery," Gilmore wrote.

He said the Pravda rumor had developed into the biggest political news in Russia since beginning of the war, excepting perhaps the Teheran conference, and that foreign observers were disturbed by the situation.

Russian newspapers have informed their readers of the British denial of the Pravda rumor, but the Soviet government has remained silent.

The London Daily Express, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, ten the British press in warming Britons against German peace-talk propaganda.

The Moscow radio broadcast today Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's statement to the house of commons yesterday on Russian-Polish relations, in which he emphasized Britain's hope of bringing about a friendly settlement between the two countries.

3 MORE ENEMY SHIPS SUNK IN RABAUL PORT

U. S. Planes Bag Trio for Sure and Probably Five in Raid.

By The Associated Press

American precision bombers sent three and probably five more Japanese ships to the graveyard of Rabaul harbor in the most damaging of a series of allied raids on enemy naval bases in the Pacific.

More than 200 American and Japanese planes fought it out over the New Britain-Japanese position Monday, and the fliers came away with the conviction the Nipponese airforce is not deteriorating as some recent statements may have indicated.

Solomons-based torpedo and divebombers hit eight of 12 merchant ships at Rabaul with 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombs, sinking three and probably two others. The Japanese lost 18 to 33 planes. Twelve American aircraft failed to return.

Strike at Carolines

The same day, Navy bombers struck at Kusaie, one of the Caroline group with at least three good harbors, in an attack possibly fore-shadowing an aerial campaign against the enemy's No. 1 island defense line. Kusaie is 700 miles west of the American-won Gilberts and 700 miles east of Truk, anchor base of the Carolines.

Army bombers renewed their raids on the Japanese-held Marshalls in the central Pacific, striking again at Mili atoll.

Although apparently there was no interception over Mili and Kusaie, the fighter strength the Japanese showed at Rabaul led General MacArthur's spokesman to comment, "we can't be lulled into a false sense of security that the Jap is deteriorating."

The allies, however, still hold a decisive edge in the aerial war. Monday's Japanese losses increased the January total in the Rabaul area to 152, with 42 more probables, against 32 for the raiding forces. In two attacks this month alone, 11 enemy merchant ships have been sunk or probably sunk.

Ground Action Quiet

Ground fighting generally was quiet, except for a flurry on Cape Gloucester, northwestern New Britain, in an unsuccessful Japanese attempt to recapture Hill 660.

On invaded Bougainville, American troops crossed the Torokina river on the northern end of the Empress Augusta bay beachhead and occupied positions near East Lagoon.

Allied planes bombed enemy positions in the Hansa bay region of northeastern New Guinea. Other bombers damaged Japanese installations south west of Madang.

Plant Accidents Kill More Than Die in Battle

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—War-time industrial accidents killed 7,000 more persons than battle wounds up to Jan. 1.

Workingmen's injuries since Pearl Harbor are responsible for the loss of four times as many man-hours of production as strikes.

The damage and destruction of equipment in workers' accidents far exceeds the value of American cargoes that have been sunk.

Lost work time from on-the-job accidents totals 450,000,000 man-days, enough to have built 7,500 average size merchant ships.

The office of war information (OWI), in presenting these figures today, declared accidents in war plants are a major production and manpower problem, with the wartime safety program lagging far behind needs of expanded production lines.

Under the tight delivery problem created by the war, OWI said it is literally true that "the death or disability of a skilled war worker here can mean the death of several fighting men overseas."

OWI quoted Verne A. Zimmer labor department director of labor standards, as declaring the majority of the nation's 100,000 war plants are operating without realistic and effective safety programs.

In only two respects does the industrial accident picture appear in favorable light, OWI said.

1. Deaths are only two-thirds as frequent, in proportion to the number of workers, as in the last war.

2. The loss in dead and injured would have been immeasurably worse had not the war brought about the most rapid adoption of safety measures in industrial history.

Big Day Boosts Bond Total Up To $263,275

$106,057 in Sales Wednesday Gives Fourth War Loan Best Day Since Start.

The Fourth War Loan Drive gained new momentum in Marion county yesterday with sales totaling $106,057.50, making a new grand total of $263,275 toward the county's big $2,848,000 goal.

With about one-eleventh of the job done, drive leaders sent out a new appeal to workers to finish their individual canvassing as quickly as possible.

"The people are waiting to be seen—they're not going to buy, not many of them at least, until somebody comes around and asks for their order," Chairman Elmer J. Schoenlaub of the County War Finance committee declared.

The Fourth War Loan chairman, Robert E. White, echoed this appeal adding that unless the campaign achieves its objective of reaching every family in Marion county, there is no chance for success in the drive.

Responses Encouraging

"It means work, but that's the only way we can go over the top," he said. He added that reports of individual response in cases where solicitors have called have been decidedly encouraging, and that a majority of the persons contacted have been ready to place orders equal in size to one-third of a month's income. Many are going far beyond that basis in their Fourth War Loan drives, he said.

Yesterday's sales, heaviest for any one day since the campaign got under way, included $37,887.50 in E bonds, which are being pushed during the early weeks of the drive. Records at the campaign headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce office show that 722 persons shared in these E bond purchases.

Other Totals

Other sales for the day included $18,800 in G bonds, $23,500 in C notes and $15,000 in treasury 2½ bonds. There was also one $370 purchase in Series F bonds.

Leaders today were making preliminary arrangements for activities that will be developed in the later stages of the campaign.

Marion's Airport Needs Cited As Part of Post-War Program

Council's Attention Called to Importance of Providing Adequate Aviation Facilities for Both Present and Future.

By BOB BYRD

Marion's municipal airport, aptly christened by at least one interested person as the city's "neglected stepchild," may in the months to come have 1944 recorded as the turning point in its much-disputed history.

The spotlight of public attention is likely to play on the port from several sources this year and for new and more important reasons than ever before.

For the port not only is entirely unsatisfactory for almost everyone concerned, but in its present condition is a serious stumbling block to any post-war hopes of making Marion an important point in the nation's air maps.

Four airlines have given Marion places on their proposed route extensions in the post-war period. But none of them would be much interested in the Marion airport as it stands today. There is some question whether the present port could be made attractive to them.

Of the scores of different persons vitally interested in seeing that Marion has its share of post-war consideration when airlines of the future are charted, one group has taken a definite step. It is the aviation committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, which has worked with the city, the Civil Air Patrol and others in keeping some semblance of aviation activity alive in Marion during the war.

Letter to Councilman

The committee's chairman J. B. Bray, who served in the same capacity last year, has written a letter to Councilman Harold Robinson, chairman of the council committee charged with keeping an eye on the airport, outlining some suggestions, most of which are designed at getting the present port in a better condition and keeping it alive in the eyes of local and visiting aviation enthusiasts.

Mr. Bray's letter gives a hint of the need for a modern port that probably couldn't be established merely by enlarging or improving the present one, but he emphasizes most the need of making the fullest possible use of the facilities the

Rome Suburbs Under Attack Again Today

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Jan. 20—A German news agency broadcast from Berlin said allied planes raided the outer suburbs of Rome this morning.

Heavy bomb loads were thrown upon Ciampino airdrome and the nearby Cintocelle airfield yesterday, allied headquarters at Algiers announced. Thus today's reported bombing apparently was the second blow at the Rome area in two days by American or British planes.

TREASURY RAPS TAX REVOLT PLEA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—The assertion of Vivian Kellems, Westport, Conn., manufacturer that businessmen should forego taxpaying until they have set aside post-war reserves, today had executed a charge of "disloyalty" from the treasury, a demand in congress for summary action, and the blunt promise of the internal revenue bureau that it intended to collect her taxes, no matter what.

Of her congressional critics the woman industrialist asked advice on how to fill out her March 15 income tax return, to the internal revenue bureau she said: "You can't get blood out of a turnip," and of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, charge of disloyalty she had only the observation that it was too serious to be answered at once.

The exchange was started by Miss Kellems' speech in which she said she had not paid her Dec. 15 taxes because she didn't have the money and the current tax law amount to "unlawful seizure." She advised others in business "to follow my example and put aside their post war reserves out of their net profits for taxes."

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, without mentioning her or the speech, said in a statement last night "most Americans are proud to pay their taxes to help win the war."

"Anyone or everyone has a right to advocate changes in the law by due legislative means," he added. "However, to advise citizens to refuse to pay taxes—particularly in the time of war—smacks of disloyalty. Such an attitude is especially unworthy of persons profiting from war contracts."

Gov. and Mrs. Bricker Leave for Buffalo, N. Y.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 20—Gov. and Mrs. Bricker went to Buffalo today where the executive will speak tonight before the Torch club, a civic organization.

They may go to New York City before returning to Columbus, the governor's office said. Bricker will not be back in his office before Monday.

He returned yesterday from a swing through the southwest where, his associates said, he won delegates to his campaign for the and Charles McCurdy, Boy Scouts, Republican presidential nomination.

MAYORS HEAR RAYBURN MAP POST-WAR JOBS

Speaker Warns U. S. Must Not Permit Another Depression.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 20 — Asserting that "if we have a real post-war job some people will renew demands for centralized control of government, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) announced to the United States conference of mayors today he would appoint next week a bi-partisan committee of the house to frame legislation for a peace time prosperity.

The speaker, mentioned prominently by Democratic colleagues for the party's vice presidential nomination, declared:

"If we allow the spectre of depression to rise once more, then the people will eventually turn again to a strong centralized government. We might as well face it, that is what they will demand. It may be five years from now, it may be 10 years hence, but it will happen.

"What then? Will the American people be so fortunate to find another man as great as democracy-defender, as Franklin D. Roosevelt to lead them through the crisis? Or will the 'man on the horse' the 'man with the iron fist,' seize control?"

Field for Committee

The committee he is appointing, Rayburn said, will draw into one common pool information of three vital post-war factors.

1. Conversion speeds, unemployment, and rate of employment.
2. Allocation of materials.
3. Public works, federal, state and local.
4. New fields of enterprise.
5. Resumption of foreign trade; possibility of new world markets; coordination with rehabilitation efforts of the United Nations.
6. Release of surplus war commodities by the government.
7. Examination of federal statutes to learn which will retard, and which will aid successful postwar conversion.

"It should be the goal of the federal government, cooperating with state and local units," he said, "to make possible the achievement of maximum private employment providing the most useful things in the shortest period of time.

"Never again should men and women be forced to prove their worth in order to procure underpaid public jobs."

Public Works

"The public works that require a period of attention. We all know how a public works program can be put on foot to take care of the lag that must occur between the end of the war production and the inception of civilian production."

"It is to be one that under our unique form of government takes no side of the state which cut into other pa-

GOOD NEIGHBOR COSTS LISTED

Senator Renews Charge of U. S. Extravagance in Central, South America.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Reiterating an earlier assertion that the United States has spent "extravagant" sums on Latin America in furtherance of the good neighbor policy, Senator Butler (R-Neb.) submitted in the senate today a second accounting placing total U. S. "spending, commitments and extensions of credit" at $5,733,953,513 during the last three years.

Butler attached to the report a 20-page itemization stating the figures were gleaned from government departments, official reports and letters, and congressional testimony, and described the findings as "a complete refutation" of administration denials of his earlier estimates that American aid to Latin America topped $6,000,000,000.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), chairman of the senate appropriations committee, recently presented administration figures putting total outlays at $1,483,373,000, and described Butler as "about 90 per cent wrong."

Lists Total Expenditures

Butler said the $5,733,953,513 represented total war and non-war outlays and obligations in South and Central American republics, exclusive of the United States possession—the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, where, he added, another $62,306,970 was expended in fiscal 1942, 1943 and 1944.

"How much more there is no one can say now," he commented. The sums of money for which no proper accounting is made are [illegible]. The technique of collaboration is too well developed. The dark art of financial double-talk has been too well mastered.

RED ADVANCE AT LENINGRAD SPEEDS AHEAD

Nazi Guns That Shelled City Two Years Ago Are Captured.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Jan. 20—Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad offensive, rolling across fronts wet with a flaming Nazi today thundered with encirclement a great German siege army of perhaps 250,000 men—big into a vast honeycomb of defenses to hold the eastern tip of Nazi lines which formerly encircled the Landward approaches of the city of Peter the Great.

The northern Red army grabbed the bulk of the specially designed long range guns which had hurled steel and death and destruction into the former Czarist capital of Russia for more than two years of siege.

The troops joined forces after striking out in two powerful prongs south of Leningrad and from Oranienbaum, Soviet bridgehead on the gulf of Finland.

The juncture either trapped Germans who had held a narrow stretch of the gulf of Finland coast just west of Leningrad, or drove them out.

A third thrust north of Lake Ilmen, 100 miles southeast of Leningrad, had virtually isolated the German base city of Novgorod.

(The German communique announced Nazi forces had evacuated Novgorod.)

13 Miles from Tallinn

The Red army units drove to within 13 miles of the east-west railway from Reval (Tallinn) in Estonia.

Except for one highway this railway was the only communication line available to the Germans holding the German salient reaching to within a few miles of Lake Ladoga, east of Leningrad.

Capture of the line would practically isolate the Germans east of the Moscow-Leningrad railway and also those east of Krasnogvardeisk (formerly Gatchina), a junction of the Leningrad-Pskov and Reval-Vologda railroads.

The Russians were driving toward the line from the west and southwest of Leningrad, and were within 13 miles of the artery.

Pouring through 25-mile gaps blasted by Govorov's guns and stormovik planes, for gains up to 12 miles, the Soviet hammerheads were pounding toward Krasnogvardeisk and Dyetskoye Selo.

The offensive brought immediate peril to large numbers of Germans to the east who now held a strip of land reaching to Lake Ladoga.

Just a year ago this month Govorov broke through south of Lake Ladoga and lifted the German land blockade which had forced the Russians to supply Leningrad across the lake ice in winter and by boat in summer.

Reinforcement Blocked

For a year Hitler's troops have been trying to reforge the ring, but Govorov's guns kept them away.

This country is one of the most beautiful in all Russia and once was the playground of the Czars and Russian nobility.

Interfax said the battle had moved so far from Leningrad that people in the southern and southwestern sections of the city for the first time in two years could not hear the sound of the guns.

It was clearly evident that Govorov, a hero of the Russian counter-offensive which relieved Moscow two years ago, packed the greatest punch of any Soviet offensive yet launched in the Leningrad area.

Some 80 miles south of Govorov's spearheads, Gen. Meretskov's Volkhov army plunged north and northwest of Novgorod through broken German defenses, having cut the railway both northeast and southwest of the ancient city and isolating it except for a few secondary highways.

The Russian communique estimated 20,000 Germans killed in the great northern offensive, now in its sixth day, and more than 1,000 Nazis captured.

NELSON TO EXPERIMENT WITH CIVILIAN OUTPUT

To Make Laboratory Test of Production Plan.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Donald M. Nelson plans to make a limited "laboratory test" of reconversion in three selected areas of the country.

The War Production Board chairman has reported tentatively approved a plan under which some plants in certain areas could be idled and surplus metals without restriction.

Civilian goods to manufacturers could be sold without regard to priority standing of purchasers, government sources said, maintaining the change the goods would be diverted for manufacture export use.

The areas under consideration are the three WPB regions with headquarters in Cleveland, Philadelphia, and Kansas City, Mo.

The scope of the "test" limited program is so limited it does not conflict with Nelson's statement Monday that there would be no "general" resumption of civilian production until the war picture is a great deal clearer.

However, officials pointed out that the plan, if successful, could later be extended into other areas and bigger plants once the European invasion is consolidated and the military picture clarified. Meanwhile it would provide both government and industry with experience in handling reconversion problems.

Ohio Pre-War Fathers Reclassified from 3-A

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20—Sixty-five per cent of Ohio's pre-Pearl Harbor fathers who were reclassified from 3-A last month were placed in occupationally-deferred categories.

This disclosure was made last night by Capt. John J. Nolan, chief of the classification section of Ohio selective service headquarters at Columbus, in an address before Cuyahoga county draft boards.

Capt. Nolan reported 44,889 of the state's pre-war fathers were removed from 3-A in December, with 7,593 going into 2-A (deferred for an essential civilian activity) and 21,463 into 2-B (deferred for war production).

Marion's Airport Needs Cited

city now has. Great aviation followers are quietly voicing the opinion that Marion would do well to forget the present port and build a big, up-to-date airport to cost around one or a half hundred acres for a possible post-war port. They argue that post-war developments will justify some comprehensive planning and decry that an attitude of indifference may cost Marion some worthwhile opportunities later.

Although Mr. Bray's letter to Councilman Robinson is inclined more toward getting the existing port into shape and keeping it that way, his proposal does not appear to be in conflict with the dreams of the "new port" advocates, for he proposes only a modest program that would cost possibly only a few hundred dollars a year—not a full-scale modernization program to try to make the Marion port good bait for post-war airlines.

Other Cities Take Action

In commenting on the port, Mr. Bray told The Star that Marion, ultimately, must invest money in a modern Class 2 airport, adding that cities like Findlay and Urbana have them now—built with local funds. However, he added that the Chamber committee is not concerned about a new airport at this moment but is anxious that some program be developed "of using present facilities to the fullest possible capacity and to maintain interest in aviation in Marion during the wartime emergency."

He cited some figures to show there already is a substantial public interest in aviation here. One factor is the more widespread use of air mail, which is one step toward public acceptance of aviation as part of everyday living. Postoffice records show that air mail stamp sales have climbed rapidly in recent months, averaging over 900 a day in the last quarter of 1943.

Another proof of interest is the record book at the airport itself. It shows that more than 1,000 flight clearances were handled at the port last year—all of them bonafide cross-country flights exclusive of little hops that local fliers made just for a jaunt around the countryside.

Present Needs Emphasized

The No. 1 concern of the Chamber's aviation committee right now is to see that the city leases the port to someone who will try, with some city help, to make full use of the port. Mr. Bray explained that the Civil Air Patrol squadron here, headed by W. R. Reichenstein, has operated the port in the past but will be unable to do so in 1944. He urges the city to keep several points in mind in preparing to lease the port to a private operator, one being that the absence of young men from Marion and vicinity now leaves a private operator few persons from which to draw possible flying students. Some of the things Mr. Bray feels should be written into a lease are, in substance, (1) that assurance be given the port and its buildings will be kept clean and orderly, (2) that the city, not the lessee, provide insurance on the buildings, (3) that the city fill in the worst cuts in the field and roll it this spring, (4) that definite provision be made for keeping the grass cut and (5) that the lean-to building at the west end of the hangar be properly repaired or torn down. In connection with his comments on keeping the grass cut, Mr. Bray pointed out that last year there were two accidents caused by grass in which a ship was damaged and a man was severely injured, and that pilots from some ports refused to land here and warned other pilots not to land at Marion.

In his letter to Councilman Robinson, Mr. Bray urges that the port be given its due share of attention in 1944 and offered the support of the Chamber committee in any assistance it could provide.

Aviation enthusiasts, in their comments on the port, cite not only the shortcomings pointed out by Mr. Bray, but also see several serious obstacles to its becoming a modern, desirable flying center. Its proximity to industrial activities, the Marion Water Co. plant, its limited acreage and its location at a point where trains frequently hold up traffic to and from the port are some of the points they mention. The port offers as a maximum possible runway about 1,600 feet of typical pasture land, but fliers taking off to the west like to get their ships off the ground quickly because the Marion Water Co. plant is just ahead of them. When that hazard is considered, the "effective" runway simmers down to something like 800 or 900 feet. That wouldn't begin to accommodate an air transport ship.

Runway Requirements

One enthusiast who is keenly aware of the needs said a modern field that would interest post-war planners and fit into the developments that seem to be on their way in the years ahead should have runways at least 3,500 feet long, capable of being expanded to 5,000 feet. It should be free of obstacles of all kinds within a radius that might intercept the angle of a plane gliding into the port. It should be in a location easily accessible to motor traffic, and for that reason not too far from Marion—possibly within three miles of the city.

He declared that Marion probably would have been a center for elementary flight training in the war program if it had been able to offer the use of a modern field early in the war.

With some half dozen planes privately owned in Marion and close to a dozen more persons ready to buy planes when conditions permit, he declared Marion could become a lively center of air activity with proper facilities.

Air transport companies would be willing to spend some of their own money at a field that would present some possibilities for future development, he declared, adding that a representative of one of the lines interested in coming to Marion after the war would like to fly regular transport stops in and out of here—not just a pick-up or feeder line. The big ones would carry the mail, men and freight, and would put Marion in the line of some important air routes, he said.

Service by CAP

In the meantime, the Civil Air Patrol is supervising virtually the only activity at the port. It has been providing flight clearance officer and port supervision. Its 45 members are all volunteers, and they are active primarily for what service they can offer the war effort. In recent weeks the CAP made an emergency flight to Toledo, carrying a passenger from a Marion war industry to Toledo on an important mission and returning him here when the mission was completed.

GREEN AND LEWIS CONFER IN SECRET

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20—After an eight-year estrangement, John L. Lewis and AFL President William Green have met secretly on the question of readmitting Lewis' United Mine Workers to the AFL, it can be revealed today.

Green and Lewis parted company when Lewis founded the CIO in 1935. The break was confirmed a year or so later when Lewis had Green expelled from the miners' union. After that, their speaking terms were epithets at long range.

Ultimate results, and details, of their meeting remain to be disclosed. It can not be called a reconciliation, at least not yet. Green refuses to discuss it. This much is known: the meeting was held in Washington recently. The conference was not sought by Green. It was proposed either by Lewis or by an AFL intermediary. It is but one evidence of great pressure being brought to bear in Lewis' favor by his friends on the AFL executive council, and by leaders of AFL unions.

One evidence of such pressure is a letter sent to council members by an official of the AFL United Auto Workers, who said many members of the CIO United Auto Workers, the world's largest union, held Lewis in great respect and that his return to the AFL would start an AFL movement among that union of more than a million members.

One important angle of the Lewis-Green meeting is that Green held the balance of power on the miners' application at the council meeting in Chicago last August. A motion to accept the UMW back into the federation on the same basis on which it left failed then for want of a majority. Green could have broken the 6-6 tie, but he did not vote.

Lewis, of course, can get back into the federation overnight on the federation's terms. His own terms are: "Take me as I am; I take you as you are." That means the jurisdictional issues of the UMW's sprawling district 50 would be negotiated only after Lewis was readmitted and became a party to negotiations on the inside. Many in the AFL believe district 50 should be carved up first.

The council is expected to consider the issue in a day or two.

LINCOLN ADVANCES COOPERATIVE IDEA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Murray D. Lincoln of Columbus, O., says people of the world "are going to get what they want, either by evolution . . . or by revolution."

Lincoln, president of the Cooperative League of the United States of America, said the expansion of consumer-owned enterprise had placed in the hands of the people "the tools to fashion their own destiny—if they will use them."

He spoke last night before delegates from 20 countries to the International Conferences of Cooperatives, called to discuss plans for making machinery of the cooperative movement available to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

President Roosevelt said, in a message to the conference:

"It is fitting that the centennial of the establishment of the truly democratic Rochdale principles is being celebrated by a conference of the committee on international cooperative reconstruction.

"The weavers of Rochdale who founded modern competitive enterprise balanced independence with interdependence, self-interest with good will, and action with foresight. Any effective handling of the problem of relief and rehabilitation of the victim of axis aggression must be based upon these same considerations. * * *

REPORT ARGENTINA HAS HITLER HAVEN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20 — A published report that a haven had been prepared in Argentina for Adolph Hitler brought from Secretary of State Hull yesterday a statement that this and other rumors of pro-axis activities in the western hemisphere might be dealt with by the state department when this nation decides whether to recognize the new Bolivian government.

Until then, he said at a news conference, he would not discuss such reports.

He said that the United States and 18 other American nations would decide as soon as possible whether to recognize the revolutionary regime in Bolivia and that each nation would reach its own decision independently.

The secretary opened his conference with an informal discussion of the Bolivian situation when a story, published by the New York World-Telegram, was brought to his attention. The story said the state department had information that Hitler influences inspired the Argentine revolution last June and were still powerful in the government and that a haven was being prepared for Hitler in that country.

Diplomatic quarters here have discussed for some time suspicions and in some cases reports, some of which have reached the state department, that pro-German elements had been at work within the Argentine government. Available sources disclaimed, however, any knowledge of information about a Hitler haven.

Secretary Hull's reaction, once he had outlined the Bolivian situation, was that he would not take up piecemeal such rumors and reports. He said that if he were disposed to discuss them, he would do so in a complete summing-up which he said he hoped to make soon.

26 in Marion and Nearby Counties Already Signed for Air Cadet Training

Young America is performing its present duty all-minded and Marion county youth are doing their share to contribute to the growing army of pilots, navigators and bombardiers, from Sgt. Mary M. Bell's commanding officer of the U. S. Army Recruiting office located in the postoffice.

Each Saturday morning a class of applicants is on hand for a mental test, preparatory to enlisting in air cadet training. Already a number have been sworn into the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve and are qualified to wear the silver wing lapel button or have been assigned to active training.

List of Recruits

Twenty-six youths who have enlisted and are now members of the corps are Alton Litsinberger, Russell Hartruff, William J. Midlam, John E. Koeppen, Richard W. Moore, Charles E. Breithaupt, James R. Boyd, William E. O'Neil, Robert E. Hudnall, all of Marion; James E. Angell, Junior A. Black, Clarence F. Crissinger of Galion; Robert A. Bailey, Kenton; Paul L. Fizarele, Ashland; Dale L. Christenson, Nevada, Delbert E. Newland, Morral; Louis R. Williams, Mansfield, Horace Wood Jr., Upper Sandusky, Errol Orders, Jack E. Linn, Alger; Ned H. Earley, Cardington; Bernard H. Mizer, Danville; Russell Ross, Cecil S. Charles and Paul E. Cramer, Richwood; D. N. Bosh of Wharton.

The Marion office now serves Hardin, Wyandot, Crawford, Morrow and Marion counties. Until recently it also drew enlistments from Knox, Ashland and Richland counties but these taree were transferred to a new sub-station established at Mansfield in December.

Civil Air Patrol Helps

The Marion Civil Air Patrol Squadron, directed by Lt. W. R. Reichenstein, has been assisting in the recruiting of young men interested in cadet training. Lt. Reichtenstein urges those who are already wearing those "Silver Wings" to attend classes at the airport in military drill and aviation subjects.

Aviation Cadet training, to become bombardiers, navigators and pilots, is available to men between the ages of 18 and 25. The Enlisted Reserve Corps, open to young men of 17, places the enlistees on inactive duty until they reach the age of 18, at which time they are permitted to apply for a deferment while they finish their schooling.

The mobile examining unit will be in Galion Saturday at 9 a. m. by Sgt. Bell in the recruiting office. Applicants are required to present a birth certificate, three letters of recommendation, an application blank filled and signed and parents' consent signatures if the 17-year-old enlistee. Application blanks and additional information may be obtained from the sub-station during the week between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

RITES FOR INFANT

A short prayer service was conducted Sunday afternoon for Richard Frank Moster, newborn son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moster of Mt. Gilead, in the Cravens funeral home there. Burial was in Mt. Gilead. The baby died in Marion City hospital Saturday, only a few hours after birth.

The aircraft production boss pointed out that unit production of airplanes will not increase so sharply this year as last. Production in 1943 was approximately 40,000 more units than in 1942, but the scheduled 1944 increase is roughly 15,000 planes.

Judged on the basis of 1942 average weights, Wilson said the 1944 production will be equivalent to 167,000 planes of 1942 vintage.

Plant Reconversion Not Now Imminent

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20—Recent contract cancellations and cutbacks are no indication a reconversion to civilian production is imminent, Director John C. Virden of the regional war production board declared today.

"With America's greatest offensives still to come, there certainly cannot be any return to volume production of less essential civilian goods," Virden said in a prepared statement.

The WPB official explained the belief reconversion might be imminent "springs naturally from recent relaxations of materials control, the knowledge that our supplies of some metals have been greatly increased and from the emphasis that recently has been placed on contract cancellations and cutbacks."

Asserting reconversion rumors were widespread, Virden said the belief could "hamper war production."

Contract cancellations, he explained, represented adaption to changing demands rather than too much material.

Mansfield Crew Chief Returning with Fortress

By The Associated Press

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, Jan. 20—The Flying Fortress "Hell's Angels," which has weathered 48 raids on Europe, was scheduled to take off today for the United States with the ground crew which kept her flying for more than a year.

Her pilot during her last five missions, Capt. John R. Johnston, of Orlando, Fla., and five other Fortress fliers who have finished their raid quotas will accompany the Fortress and her ground crew on a tour of assembly and parts plants at home.

Ground crewmen include the chief, Sgt. Fabian Folmer, of Mansfield, O.

"Hell's Angels" arrived in England Oct. 24, 1942. All the original crew members have finished out their quotas and returned to the United States except two who went down over Germany in other ships and now are prisoners.

EAST OBTAINING FAIR CORN SUPPLY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 20—The corn-starved east has been able to obtain fairly substantial quantities of the yellow grain in this market during the past few days, cash grain members said today, as a result of a sharp pick-up in offerings from the mid-western corn belt.

Shipping sales out of this market yesterday, practically all of which went east, totaled 170,000 bushels—largest single day's sales in many months.

Corn is badly needed in the dairy sections of eastern states to maintain milk, egg, butter and chicken production. Cash dealers said yesterday's relatively large sales did not nearly meet the eastern demand.

During the past two days more than 1,000,000 bushels of corn have been offered by farmers and country grain elevators for future shipment here. Most of this grain was bought by processors, who use the corn to manufacture materials needed in war production industries.

Trade reports said the processors, who have first claim to the grain, now have all they need for January shipment. Consequently, some corn was going to local elevators which sell to the east.

THE Fifth War Loan is part and parcel of the preparations for the all-out smash at Germany and Japan. The slogan, "Let's all Back the Attack," conveys the note of urgency to everyone of us to do our utmost to make certain that we do not have another Dunkerque or Dieppe on our hands. If you have anyone near the battlefront—and who has not—you will want to sacrifice to the point of hurt to buy extra war bonds.

This is the kind of a war you as an individual can't brush off. You're in it to the hilt. Not since the very beginning of the Republic have the ringing words of the Founding Fathers—"we pledge our lives and our fortunes"—resounded so clearly and so truly. Because if we lose, we lose all—not only as a nation but as individuals.

In the big assault, in which men from this community—men from your very home and your neighbors' homes—will be braving every terror a Hitler can hurl against them—you have a job to do. You can't afford to take the chance that you will not be needed. Every man and woman and even our children must deny themselves comforts and luxuries to put the money into extra war bonds in order to achieve in some measure the sacrifice which their sons, brothers, fathers, husbands and friends will make in the next few months, perhaps weeks.

The fateful days are here. In the years to come you will look back at the early months of 1944 and recall what you did to help save yourself, your family and your country.

Every home which displays the Treasury Department's 4th War Loan, red, white and blue shield with its proud message, "We've Bought Extra Bonds," is adding its weight to the attack.

In doing your duty in the forthcoming invasion to crush our enemies, you are first being loyal to your country. However, you must not lose sight of the fact that "buying bonds" and keeping them is actually saving money. Bonds are savings. They are real social security, real old age insurance. They are the safest and best investment for the average man, against a rainy day.

Where else can you find an opportunity for small investment today, such as in E Bonds, that guarantees a 33-1/3 per cent increase in 10 years?

Thus, from a standpoint of sound reasoning, every person should put every dollar he or she has into War Bonds, for the good of the country and for the good of the individual citizen. Let's all back the attack.

Goebbels Can't Complain

THE BRITISH, of course, disclaim the report published by the Moscow newspaper Pravda hinting at a "peace feeler" meeting between German Foreign Minister Ribbentrop and British officials. If Pravda spoke for the Communist party in this case—and it never speaks for anything else—little Joe Goebbels in Germany can't complain.

It would mean he is succeeding in a monumental project—the separation by suspicion of the two governments whose alliance is the only possible means of defeating Germany in the war. He formerly tried to do the same thing by coaxing the British to believe the Russians were making a separate peace, but at least the British never gave his lies any official credence.

There are some, including Americans, always anxious to believe the worst of their allies. In the guise of skepticism, they fall as eagerly into complete defeatism as little ducks fall into water; they merely obey their instinct. They are the unwitting friends of Little Joe in Berlin, or wherever he is doing his dirty work, because without them he could find no acceptance for his tried and true formula of dividing and conquering.

Unless all the people on the Allied side with enough native sense to see the awful possibilities of letting their countries be separated by suspicion and mistrust while they are facing Germany and Japan can rally their influence, Joe Goebbels and his fairies may win more battles for Germany than the Prussian generals leading the German armies in retreat.

Federal "Insurance"

THE social security board's recommendation for federal insurance to cover doctor and hospital bills will touch off a brisk fight, but before the fight can settle anything something else must be settled.

What is federal "insurance"?

The Roosevelt administration recently has made it plain that money collected for old age benefits, sometimes called old age insurance, is regarded as nothing more or less than revenue; though needing no increase in rates to make payments, it has insisted on an increase as part of its revenue program.

Until the people can be sure that federal insurance isn't one more way of getting one more hand into their pockets besides the hands already there, they will do well to stick to insurance companies for their insurance.

News Behind the News

Little Occasion Seen at Present for Russia To Consider Separate Peace with Nazis.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Everybody [illegible] that Stalin is getting ready to make a separate peace, evolved almost deliberately by the aggressive attitude of the British diplomatic set [illegible] on the extraordinary [illegible] on international affairs.

[illegible] have not [illegible] Berlin, a fairly [illegible] Nazi conservatives was [illegible] of the head point of the [illegible] and Znamya [illegible] along the Warsaw-Odessa [illegible]. True, this is [illegible] and the Reds are [illegible] but Stalin has planned even this victory [illegible] immediate decisive possibilities.

The Nazis have been moving men from the [illegible] of the [illegible] running east to Krivoi-Rog. Of course, the Germans must hold around Vinnitsa to let the [illegible] escape, but they seem fairly strong.

The Russians are pursuing the fighting in two sectors (Poland and in the north) more harshly than has been revealed in their communiques. Yet the main coming battle certainly will be in the Vinnitsa area.

Decision Not Near

So if peace is at hand, it is not yet apparent on the battlefield. Internally, German transportation may have broken down more than is evident, but there is nothing apparent here in that situation, beyond the obvious overall fact that the Nazi cause as a whole is lost, and has been for months.

You will have to look elsewhere for the background of these diplomatically planted peace reports, and it no doubt lies on the head of diplomacy. The administration has blown up great gobs of resentful smoke, charging some people in this country with promoting suspicion of Russia, but Russia obviously is bent on promoting suspicion of herself and deadening others.

If there are people in this country creating a harmful propaganda suspicion of Russia, they are of minor importance, compared with Russian intent to make herself suspicious to the world—including this administration.

Stalin went home from the world-wide benevolence atmosphere of Teheran, signed a self-alone treaty with Czechoslovakia, attacked the worldwide Mr. Willkie, proclaimed his own Polish policy, then aroused Britain of sneaking around seeking a separate peace.

To me, all this means final unanswerable proof of what I have been reporting all along in the face of strong contrarious criticism—namely Russia has a realistic self-interested foreign policy and propaganda line. We have not.

Our policy and line in the public speeches of our leaders is that we must love Russia, that anyone who does not love Russia is a Nazi or Fascist. Our leadership has not taught us to know Russia for what she actually is; to understand her realistically—when is our only real chance of getting along with her peacefully.

Mystifying

First thing we should know is she never necessarily means what she says. Her working basis is do or die mystifying things to get you to guess what she is up to, to smoke you out, to see how you will act, what you will do. Her purpose is never apparent.

Stalin would consider it a weakness (and he might call it a profound democratic weakness) to reveal your purpose. To hate the Russian method or to criticize it will do little good. To know it for what it is, is necessary.

But our news readers are apt to accept her pressure news as truthful direct reports—and thus react revealingly, as she wants us to.

You can only find out what Russia is going to do by going behind her utterances and actions into sound, realistic considerations likely in the military situation, and diplomatic situation to see what she can get out of a given situation.

Diplomatic Aspects

In the diplomatic phase, there seems no more ground for separate peace suspicions than on the battlefield. If Stalin should make peace with Germany now, he would not even have assurance that he will win the war.

Hitler could move his armies to the western front, might defeat us and then turn on him. If Hitler did not defeat us, then Stalin would face war with us.

If Stalin would trust the Germans—or the situation—to this extent, he would not be Stalin.

Clearly, he is getting ready for peace and the future world by an alert, self-interested propaganda line and foreign policy. If we are, it is not evident in words or actions.

Today and Tomorrow

Here's One Possible Explanation for Charges Made by Russia.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT occurs to me, though I do not know and am merely guessing, that a not implausible theory can now be pieced together about Pravda's publication of the peace rumor which it attributed to Greek and Yugoslav sources in Cairo.

When Tass, which is the official Soviet news agency, broadcast the British denial of the Ribbentrop story it prefaced the broadcast by citing a second story, this one an authentic quotation from the Sunday Times of London, about peace proposals alleged to have been made by the Germans to the British through Ankara, Lisbon and Stockholm.

This would seem to be a very strong indication that the Russians are really worried about the possibility of some kind of deal with the Germans at their expense, although the peace rumor published by the British newspaper [illegible] was branded by [illegible] as a lie.

My guess is that the Russians really believe that the Germans are playing [illegible] such "carefully built up" fear that they mean to make very sure that the British do not fall into it.

Basis of Soviet Worry

My [illegible] is that the Russians [illegible] based on past experience, the master clue to Russian action is their almost total preoccupation with one single thing: The menace of the German Army.

In the last war [illegible] Russia [illegible] the correct explanation has turned out later to have been that Russia would be shut out of help by the power of the German Army.

[illegible] is plausible to look for the [illegible] of this latest Russian [illegible] of propaganda in the [illegible] with the British over the [illegible] of the Balkans.

[illegible] after the Teheran [illegible] that the Russians [illegible] Mr. Churchill will make a [illegible] peace with Hitler's [illegible] We may dismiss [illegible] entirely [illegible] having [illegible] will not [illegible] them their [illegible] good faith.

[illegible] the Russians [illegible] which, without [illegible] it and in spite of our being loyally resolved against it, would in fact rupture the common Anglo-Soviet-American front in dealing with Germany.

The Russians have shown themselves to have better information from inside Europe than has been available in London and Washington; and they have often shown a greater foresight about what was going to happen inside Europe than we have. If they now think the Germans are laying a trap, and that the danger is great enough to warrant a public demonstration which puts every one, and not only officials, on guard, we had better look to what Germany might do, and overlook the disconcerting manners with which the Russians have treated their allies.

Possible German Reasoning

Now it is common knowledge that the Germans know they will lose the war. It is also common knowledge that most Germans dread above all else the entry of the Red Army. It is common knowledge that when the time comes to surrender, the Germans would like to surrender to the British and ourselves, and to be occupied by us as a protection against being occupied by the Russians.

The Russians know this quite well. While we may and must assume that Stalin does not think we would make such a faithless deal behind his back, it is not impossible that he thinks the Germans will maneuver us into a position where, without a deal, a similar result would follow.

How might the Germans do that? By making a token resistance in the west while they resisted fiercely in the east in order that Gen. Eisenhower should get to Berlin before the Russians, and impose an armistice before the Russians were fighting on German soil.

If this were the German plan, obviously we would not and could not compel the Germans to fight us if they did not want to fight us. The relief at not having to suffer the casualties we anticipate would be very great. From the point of view of the Russians the situation would be truly alarming. For it could mean that they who had borne the brunt of the battle would be in a secondary position to settle with Germany.

It may well be, then, that the Russians are trying to make very sure that we realize fully, before we are enmeshed in Germany as we are in Italy, how such a German scheme might work out.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Officers of the Naval Air Technical Training Center got their biggest shock of the war when a sailor returned five days after starting a ten-day furlough.

The South American Puzzle

By Jack Stinnett.

WASHINGTON—In the midst of a lot more sensational home-front and war-front problems, it's difficult to explain just how vital the situation in Central and South America is being considered here.

Our "Good Neighbor policy," built up through years of effort and expenditures running into the near-billions, is threatened with collapse. The Bolivian revolution was the first defection but it may not be the last.

As a matter of fact, a high British official, who asked that his name not be used, explained it this way in a private conversation the other day:

"The Bolivian revolution is just the beginning and in a way it's no more than a preview of what's brewing in the United States and other allied nations.

Think War Threat Gone

"In South America, peace has come. Let me make myself clear. A year or more ago, they considered themselves threatened by the Nazis on the east and the Japs on the west. Those nations south of the Rio Grande that were financially and physically able made preparations to resist invasion. They were alarmed and solidarity with neighboring nations and unity within seemed their best protections.

"In the last year, and particularly since we have mopped up North Africa, Sicily and southern Italy on one hand; and eastern New Guinea, the Solomons and the Gilbert Islands on the other, the war has receded from these shores. In Latin America, peace is already just around the corner and the minority groups or those out of power see no further necessity for delaying action.

"To some extent, this same thing is manifest in your own nation. Every major victory in the war brings forth new defections among minority groups. And I'm sad to say the same thing may occur in England just as soon as we have made successful advances toward establishing a western front in Europe."

To some extent, this view throws a new light on the Latin American situation, but a none-the-less alarming one so far as western hemisphere solidarity is concerned.

What of the Future?

In our own nation, winning the war still is uppermost in most minds, but once the certainty of that victory is just over the next little hill, how are we going to feel politically about our leaders and sacrificial participations in world reconstruction?

The answer to that question will clarify to some extent what has happened and may spread in Latin America. Washington observers who admit our failure to keep Argentina and Bolivia closely welded, are now worried about Chile, Peru and Paraguay.

If the British official is right and the Bolivian revolution is merely a prelude to what may happen when peace comes, it's time for drastic action now. The State Department already has indicated that it feels that way about it, but the Allied Nations can't really move without a solid front composed of those Western hemisphere nations who still are united in the idea of world peace forever.

Chinese women centuries ago rouged and painted their finger nails with names, designs and constellations or animals.

Jumping the Gun

A British official in Washington quoted by Associated Press gives this interesting opinion on recent developments in South America:

"In South America, peace has come. Let me make myself clear. A year or more ago, they considered themselves threatened by the Nazis on the east and the Japs on the west. Those nations south of the Rio Grande that were financially and physically able made preparations to resist invasion. They were alarmed and solidarity with neighboring nations and unity within seemed their best protection.

"In the last year, and particularly since we have mopped up North Africa, Sicily and southern Italy on one hand; and eastern New Guinea, the Solomons and the Gilbert islands on the other, the war has receded from these shores. In Latin America, peace is already just around the corner and the minority groups or those out of power see no further necessity for delaying action.

"To some extent, this same thing is manifest in your own nation. Every major victory in the war brings forth new defections among minority groups. And I'm sad to say the same thing may occur in England just as soon as we have made successful advances toward establishing a western front in Europe."

Gen. P. C. March

Chief of Staff in World War Forgot To Mention Something in 79th Birthday Interview.

By DAMON RUNYON

ONE salient feature of Gen. Peyton C. March's career was not mentioned in any of the accounts I read of the interview he granted on his 79th birthday recently. That was the fact he once commanded a sort of private military unit in one of our wars.

It was part of the army, to be sure, but the name and the circumstances of its organization tended to set it apart as a most exclusive and aristocratic outfit. It was known as the Astor battery, financed by and named for John Jacob Astor, who went down on the Titanic.

It would scarcely be possible in this era for a rich man to put up money to organize any kind of military unit to be named for himself, but things were different in the days of the Spanish-American war, a wholly volunteer affair. It was deemed a highly patriotic gesture when Astor provided the funds to put a battery of artillery in the field, and in fact it was quite helpful to the treasury.

Gen. March in 1898 was 34 years old and still a lieutenant. Promotion in the army was mighty slow in those days. He was an artillery officer at the school at Fort Monroe. He was a graduate of Lafayette in his native state of Pennsylvania and also of West Point. He was the most dapper guy you ever laid eyes on.

HE was, in fact, the very beau ideal of a dashing army officer in appearance, carriage and deportment, and it seemed quite fitting that he should get the coveted assignment of commanding the high-toned Astor battery. It was equipped with small mountain guns, which were then supposed to be the last word in armament of that nature, and the men were carefully selected. By the time March got through with them, they were drilled and disciplined to a fare-you-well.

It was rumored that they had perquisites and privileges far beyond the ordinary enlisted men, though that was probably a canard. But they were the most envied soldiers in the Eighth army corps, and there is no doubt that they put on airs. They were proud of being March's men. March, himself, had an air of exclusiveness in those days.

Gen. Arthur MacArthur, father of Douglas, had this to say about the Astor battery after the fall of Manila in '98:

"The brilliant manner in which Lt. March accepted and discharged the responsible and dangerous duties of the day and the pertinacity with which, assisted by his officers and men, he carried his guns over all obstacles to the very front of the firing line, was an exceptional display of warlike skill and good judgment, indicating the existence of many of the best qualifications for high command in battle."

MARCH was governor of various provinces in the Philippines and a military observer in the Russo-Japanese war in 1904. He never got a real chance in the field in World War I because he was made chief of staff and had to perform a more monumental job than any field officer. There was considerable rivalry between March and Pershing, because March probably felt he should have been in command of the expeditionary forces, where the glory lay.

In the end, Pershing's fame outshone that of the Pennsylvanian, but March made the position of chief of staff the most important military job in the nation. Marshall is undoubtedly a fine chief of staff, but he has yet to demonstrate that he is as great as the old artilleryman whose reorganization of the army in 1917 and whose prodigious accomplishments in transporting men and supplies overseas set the pattern for this war.

March put 2,000,000 men in France in one striking force in nine months with no previous experience in mammoth movements of that nature to go by. I think this still stands as a record, though it will perhaps be exceeded in the coming invasion.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I have been sitting here tonight listening to the radio and wondering what became of the Great Pizzaro.

When you were a shaver he was going strong. I expect you remember the night you got licked for sneaking out against your father's orders. He put on a darned good bill, I remember, for an ordinary traveling medicine show—well worth sneaking out to see any night.

He had a couple of blackfacers who were as good as any I ever saw, or at least were as good as any that ever hit this burg. I remember he had a girl who used to sing and throw herself around in what was, for those times, a pretty reckless manner, but the real show was the old quack, himself.

Kiddo, when he warmed up the crowd with some jokes and had everything coming his way, it was a treat to watch him get rid of the stuff. I hate to think how many bottles of elixir that bird sold me, how many jars of electric ointment and so on.

The only thing I never fell for was the tapeworm capsules. I guess I was squeamish or something, but when the Great Pizzaro would hold up one of his famous bottles containing a tapeworm that had succumbed to his own preparation based on a formula given him by his grandfather by an Indian chief in gratitude for saving his life—that was the spiel—I always figured I had one of those things inside me and let it stay there than know about it.

I never did figure out how the old rascal managed to use the names of local people who laid claim to the worms, but he made it sound mighty convincing. I never actually knew any of the people, but it seems to me I used to know people who did know the people. He was a smart operator, that Pizzaro—smart enough to keep coming back year after year with the show. He must have made a fortune.

Why, he used to get 75 cents for a bottle of his elixir, and you could buy ordinary drugstore liquor a lot cheaper than that. I drank a lot of the stuff and it never did me any harm that I could see, nor any good, either, but it tasted medicinal enough to cure anything. Who knows what I might have had if I hadn't [illegible] the stuff?

These old birds and their medicine shows gave the people a great run for their money. I hate to think what they could have done with radio and vitamins. By comparison, the medicine shows the radio people put on these days are tame stuff. They'll never beat the fun of standing around on a nice summer night in the glare of the acetylene lights and letting Pizzaro sell you a bill of goods. It's that licking you got. It's just one more why I feel sorry for those kids of yours who never know how much fun they missed by being born too late. Write soon. I got your catalogue yesterday and will [illegible] garden this year. I'm going to specialize in red and white tomatoes.

Cotton Corners Uncle

The army should be put on a [illegible] promotions (after the war) will be on merit and not alone on seniority. [illegible] have something to learn from the Germans in their recognition of leadership in building their army.—Sen. Elbert D. Thomas of Utah.

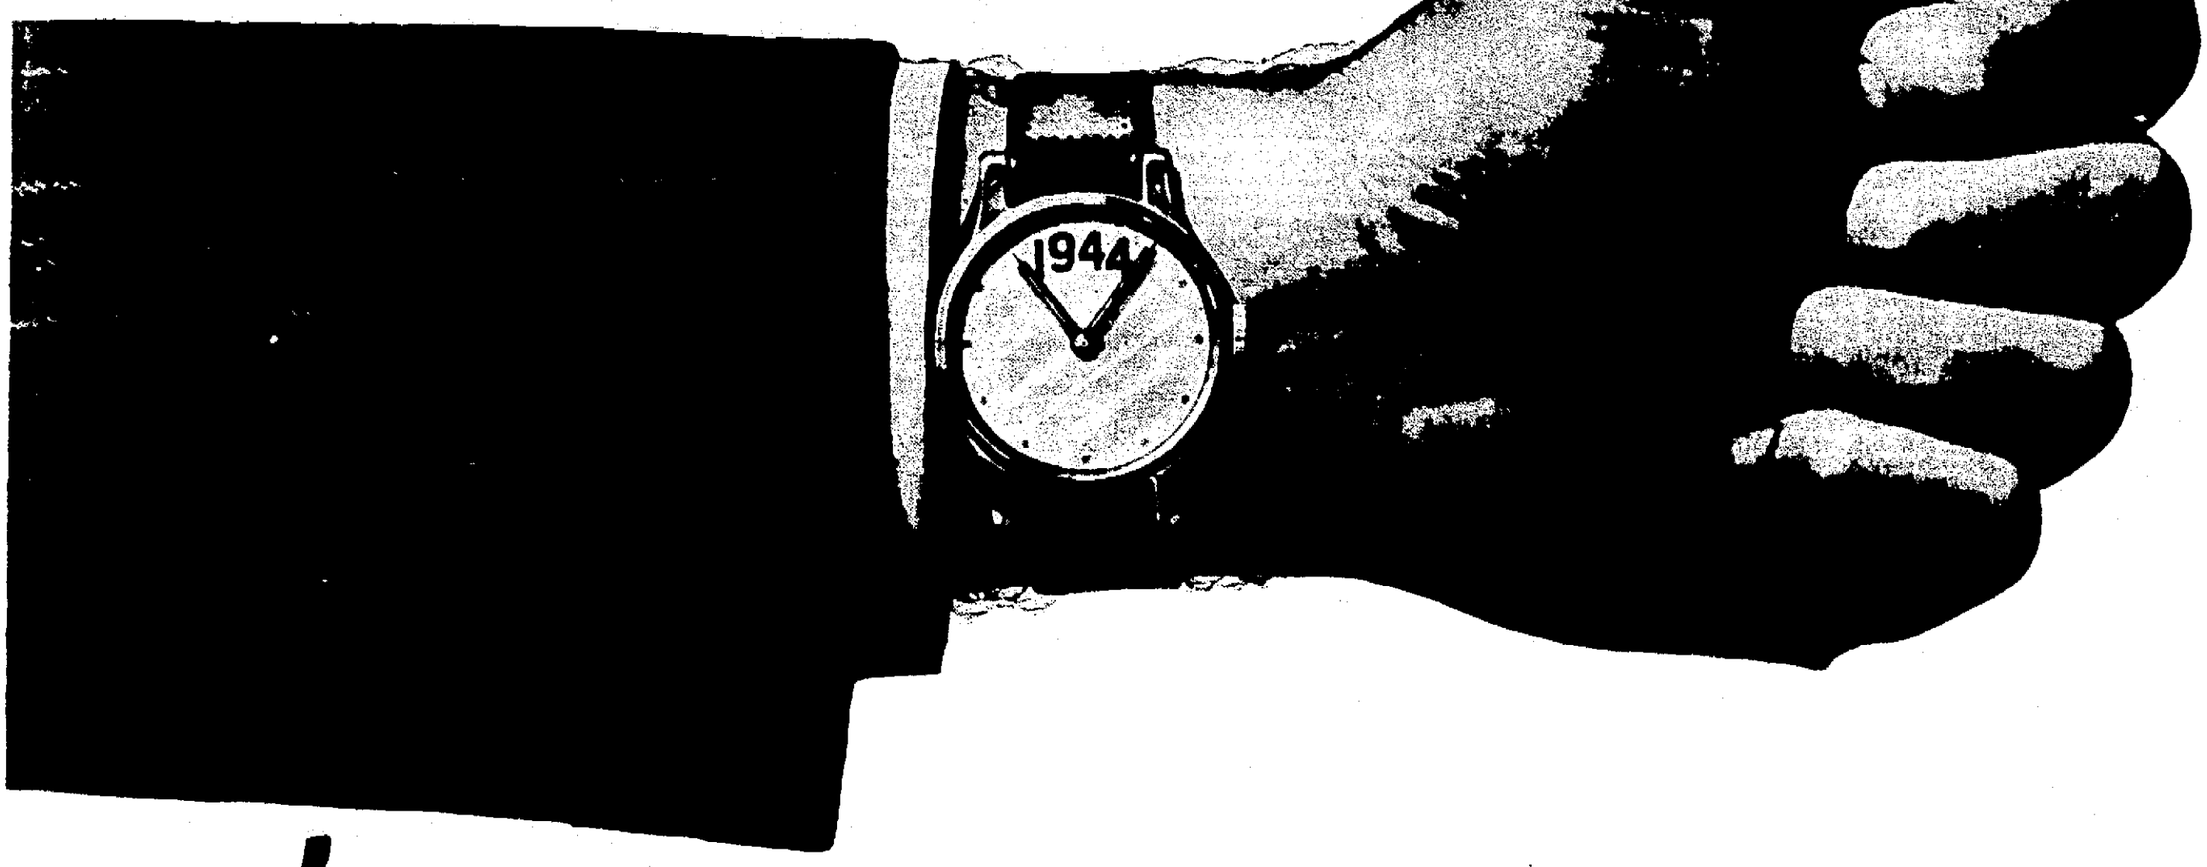
THIS IS THE YEAR OF DECISION!



LET'S ALL MEET IT TOGETHER!

THE war none of us wanted is the war all of us have got to win—and we're being given our chance this year to make 1944 the year that counts, the year of decision.

With the greatest military strength the world has ever seen in our possession, we are boring in for the knock-out blow. But that blow needs a lot of punch behind it if we are to "count out" the German enemy this year. That's where you come in. For you are being asked this month to play your part in the 1944 march to victory by buying the Bonds that will help to make this the year to be proud of. And it's not only your duty but your privilege, for with every Bond you buy you'll be buying your share of the fruits of victory as well.

For the money you invest now will be yours to spend later for things you have always wanted.

Your duty as an American is to buy at least one extra $100 Bond. But that is just the rock-bottom figure. Thousands of Americans are going to have to invest much more than that during this 4th War Loan drive to make certain that this will be the year that marks the end of the Nazi power.

During this drive keep on buying your regular quota of Bonds where you work, and be sure you buy your extra Bonds there too. Every plant, every office, every community will have its quota—you must see that that quota where you work or live is reached.

This Drive is your Drive—your chance to prove that you are still backing the attack. Show your confidence that this is the year that will really hurt the enemies of your country on land, in the air and on the seas.

Does size mean brilliance?

Not always. Brilliance depends upon the quality of the diamond and the skill with which it is cut. There are many large diamonds that cannot be classed as brilliant according to our standards.

You don't need to buy a large diamond to get a brilliant one. But you do need to be sure that you get quality. That's why we suggest that you drop in and get the facts about diamonds before you choose.

Bad Coughs Yield Quickly To This Home Mixture

Surprisingly Quick Relief. No Cooking. Saves Money.

Here's a medicine for coughs due to colds, that you mix in your own kitchen. It's no easy to prepare that a child could do it, but once tried, you'll never again be without it.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of very wonderful cough syrup. It's thrifty, too—about four times as much for your money. And children take it willingly, because it tastes so good.

This home mixture takes right hold of a cough in a way that's surprising. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable agent for soothing throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Today marked the anniversary of President Roosevelt's third-term inauguration but his only observance of the day, Secretary Stephen Early said, was "work."

NEWS MAN ON CLUB PROGRAM

World Events Viewed in Talk at Annual Dinner Meeting.

Frederic Snyder, roving reporter and worldwide traveler, the man who reads the news from the headlines before it happens and anticipates events with an accuracy that is baffling, was guest speaker when the Marion Association of University Women and the Altrusa club met for their third annual dinner Tuesday evening at Hotel Harding. The program hour was shared with patrons of the University club and others interested in Mr. Snyder's subject, "Keeping Ahead of the Headlines."

One Notable "Hit"

Mr. Snyder "called" the bombing of the Japs for Dec. 2 or Dec. 4 and it "hit" Dec. 4, and he wrote an advance on the death of Huey Long. However, he emphasized to his audience, that he does not "predict" and he does not pre-write, he tries to look ahead and see what topples into the headlines, and anticipates what is going to happen. Ninety-six per cent of the news space last year was indexed under nine letter words, he told his audience, and as proof of his statement mentioned "Churchill," prisoners," "Normandie," "income tax," rationing," and many others. He anticipates 1944 news words to be in 10 letters and offered "Hitler Dead,' "Hitler Hung," "casualties," "war wounded," and "starvation," stating that the last named word will not strike the United States. A headline that he hopes will not appear is "Gas Warfare," but, he stated, the Germans in their desperation may use it.

World Picture Presented

From his headline words Mr. Snyder gave a rapid fire picture of events around the world and gave his audience some interesting facts regarding countries, people in the national and international limelight and situations as they are today. He reminded his listeners that 94 per cent of the people of the world do not live in the United States and that practically all of the world is armed and mobilized. We are a tiny minority and no place in the world is more than 44 hours from Cleveland, he stated. Stalin is sitting in the driver's seat at the present time, he said, and in touching on the Arctic picture expressed his belief that that part of the globe should be international.

In his discussion of Premier Churchill, who is a cousin of Mr. Snyder, he stated he would not be surprised to see him out of the picture. He described John L. Lewis as one of the most powerful and sinister figures in America today and named John Winant as one of the ablest men functioning in the national life today.

Predicts Invasion "Surprise"

During a question hour which followed Mr. Snyder's talk he told his audience they will be surprised to see what direction the coming invasion will take and anticipates that it will be from 10 to 20 days old before we realize it is on. Touching on the political aspect he said he should not be surprised to see five parties in the field, two Republican, two Democrat and a fifth "wheel."

Miss Ruth Turner, a member of both the University and Altrusa groups, presided for the program hour. For the dinner, the table was centered with panels bearing the flags of the countries of the Allied Nations.

Many legends surround the origin of coffee but most authorities believe it originated in Ethiopia and was carried to Arabia about 1400 A.D.

hall and cried: "My mother's been shot."

Police said members of Mrs. Williams' family insisted they knew of no persons who would want to harm her. Williams, commercial attache of the U. S. Embassy in Tokyo from 1935 to 1942, arrived in Chicago from Washington early today.

Shortly after Mrs. Williams and her daughter returned to their apartment last night, a woman, about 45 years old, emerged from behind a bathroom door and pointed a gun at Mrs. Goodbody.

"I became petrified," Mrs. Goodbody related to Lieut. John Quinn. "I ducked, covering my face with my hands. Then she fired. The bullet hit near me."

The gunwoman then ran into the living room and fired two shots at Mrs. Williams. Mrs Goodbody said the assailant left the apartment and she ran into the hall to summon help.

OFFICES TO AID VETS FIND JOBS OPENED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Jan. 20—Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, announced today veterans administration offices in seven cities would be opened next week to initiate an expanded veterans employment program.

"Returning veterans must have at their disposal the total professional and technical resources of the federal government," McNutt said. "The new offices will find the veteran a job, counsel him on job training and job opportunities, and test him for job aptitudes."

McNutt made his announcement in a talk prepared for delivery to the American Legion.

RUSSIA

ships of the Soviet Baltic fleet had shelled Germ[illegible] position on the Leningrad front to help open the offensive.

Russian artillery and Stormovik bombers blasted a path for Govorov's tanks and infantry as they drove deep into the enemy's defenses southwest of Leningrad and clamped a stranglehold on railways and highways in the Krasnoye Selo Selo sector.

Troops on the Volkhov front under Gen. K. A. Meretskov made equally swift progress through strong enemy fortifications. Closely coordinated with the Leningrad thrust, this drive was reported to have advanced more than 10 miles through a 30-mile-wide gap north of Novgorod. It straddled three strategic railway lines, leaving but one escape railway open to the beleaguered German garrison in Novgorod.

Your Federal Income Tax

15—TAX FORGIVENESS

When the pay-as-you-go system of income tax collection started last year, you already owed your 1942 tax. To relieve you of paying both your 1942 and 1943 taxes in the same year, Congress decided to forgive part of one year's tax.

Your 1943 tax return will show you how to figure how much tax was forgiven with the tax on your 1943 income to determine which is larger and which is smaller. You will be forgiven part of the smaller year's tax, and then you will owe the unforgiven portion of the smaller year's tax plus all of the larger year's tax.

However, you will credit against these tax liabilities (a) any payments you made on your 1942 tax (probably installments paid in March and June, 1943), (b) any income and victory taxes withheld in 1943 from your wages by your employer, and (c) any estimated tax you may have paid in September and December, 1943.

If, after taking these credits, you owe a balance, you can postpone for one year (without interest) any part of the balance up to one-half of the amount of the unforgiven portion of the smaller year's tax.

The amount of your forgiveness depends on the size of the smaller year's tax, and on whether you are in the armed forces. However, in the vast majority of instances, the forgiveness will be simply 75 per cent of the smaller year's tax. Naturally, if you had no tax for one of the two years, 1942 or 1943, you have nothing to be forgiven.

Here are the methods of figuring tax forgiveness:

(1) If the smaller year's tax was $50 or less, it is all forgiven.

(2) If the smaller year's tax was more than $50 but less than $66 68, the forgiveness is a flat $50.

(3) If the smaller year's tax was more than $66.67, the forgiveness is 75 per cent.

(4) If you were in any of the armed forces in active service at any time during either 1942 or 1943, and your 1942 tax was larger than the tax on your 1943 income, your forgiveness (as described in the three preceding paragraphs) is increased by recomputing your 1942 tax to eliminate as much of its excess over the 1943 tax as is due to "earned net income." This may result in the 1942 tax as recomputed being no greater than the 1943 tax.

Special rules apply in those instances in which a married couple filed either joint or separate returns for 1942 but are filing differently for 1943.

In the first place, they need to know how to enter the 1942 tax.

If they filed separately for 1942 and are filing jointly for 1943, they should add their 1942 taxes and enter the total as their joint 1942 tax on their 1943 return.

If they filed jointly for 1942 and are filing separately for 1943, and the joint 1942 tax was smaller than the total of their separate 1943 taxes, they may divide the joint 1942 tax between them in any proportion they desire, so long as neither's share exceeds his 1943 tax. If they filed jointly for 1942 and are filing separately for 1943, and the joint 1942 tax was larger than the total of their separate 1943 taxes, then the difference may be divided between them, and each should report, as his 1942 tax, his share of the difference plus the amount of his 1943 tax.

In the second place, they need to know how to figure their forgiveness.

If they filed separately for 1942 and are filing jointly for 1943, they figure their forgiveness the same as a married couple which had filed jointly in both years. But if they filed jointly for 1942, and are filing separately for 1943, they must figure their forgiveness together, find how much unforgiven tax they owe together, and then divide the unforgiven tax between them. In this last instance, the joint figuring must be shown on both returns and a statement must be attached showing how the unforgiven tax was divided.

UNION COUNCIL HEARS STATE CIO OFFICIAL

Ohio Secretary Declares Political Action Now Necessary.

William V. Lavelle of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO council, outlined council duties and activities and discussed political action when he appeared as guest speaker at a meeting of the Marion Industrial Union Council Wednesday night in the Steel Workers' hall on East Center street.

He compared the labor problems of 1936-37 with those of today, stating that they differed only because of the increase in both pay and workers. He stated that the people must be stirred to putting the right men in congress so they will be able to help during the more economical times to come.

"The industrialist has put labor on the spot," Mr. Lavelle said, "by allowing the 'no strike pledge,' but all unions combined, will retaliate by putting all parties on the spot at the next election."

It was his observation that all of the labor strikes had been caused by the slow response of the War Labor Board. He continued by naming these three bills which has forced labor to take political action. No rollback of prices, no subsidy program and the Smith-Connally bill. Mr. Lavelle stated however that labor has kept 99 per cent of the "no strike pledge."

He compared the production of the United States in 1932 with production today saying that it shows the production power of the country must be continued or a critical unemployment situation will result.

He concluded by recalling the words of Vice President Wallace in a recent New York speech who said, "Unions made the conversion from peace time to war time and the unions must and will make the conversion from war time to peace time."

Mr. Lavelle, who was recently elected to his present office, has been an active labor organizer for 20 years.

Heinkerling at a U. S. 15th air force bomber station in Italy said only one of three major lines down the Italian peninsula is open at present—the east coast route supplying Nazi forces braced against the British Eighth army.

Although truck transport still can bring in some materials of war over bomb-scarred highways, intelligence officers were quoted as predicting the disruption of rail traffic may have a direct effect on the ground fighting when Wehrmacht German stores are exhausted.

TRIBUNE TO APPEAL DECISION IN AP SUIT

Chicago Paper Calls It Blow To Freedom of Press.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—The Chicago Tribune, a defendant in the government's anti-trust suit against The Associated Press, announced last night it would appeal the federal court judgment on the ground it pointed toward "complete censorship."

The judgment, by a 2 to 1 vote of the three circuit court judges of the southern district of New York, would restrain The Associated Press perpetually from observing by-laws under which members might consider competitive aspects of applicants for membership.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Tribune, said in a statement here:

"The opinion of the majority paralleled the reasoning of Justice Scroggs of England who held in 1679 that the crown had the power under its prerogative to censor the Press. In this case the court arrogates to itself this power by judicial legislation which it claims similarly to have had conferred upon it by the anti-trust law. This opinion, in the opinion of all our counsel, would grow into complete censorship."

"The Chicago Tribune," McCormick said, "will appeal this decision because it believes it to be the worst decision that has ever been made in the history of the fight for freedom of speech and the press."

Trouble Travels Double To Plague Spanish Dictator

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Spanish Generalissimo Franco's policy of playing fair both ends against the middle, in his relations with Hitler and the Allies, has landed him in another jam with Britain, thus adding to the drives problems which are complicating his seemingly difficult fight to maintain his dictatorship.

This time British Foreign Secretary Eden has projected Spain on two points. He told the house of commons that Sir Samuel Hoare, England's ambassador to Spain, had been instructed to make further strong representations over the fact that Spanish volunteers still are fighting with the Nazis against Russia. Britain also has renewed her support of the Italian government's request for the release of all Italian ships in Spanish ports.

Mr. Eden made no effort to conceal his government's annoyance with the Spanish support of the Hitlerites. However, this only adds one more to the long string of allied protests against Franco's attitude.

U. S. Incident

Less than a month ago Washington had an "incident" on its hands when two members of the Franco Falange party flung themselves into our consulate at Valencia and damned as enemies of Spain some 35 Spaniards who were reading American literature. Later both the Spanish government and the Falange party expressed regret—a fact of which our state department took note without making response.

Franco's troubles don't travel singly. One of his serious difficulties seems to be that he can't quite make up his mind whether his bread is spread with Nazi or with allied butter. He's timid about declaring his exact position. Like King Alfonso in the last war, he wants to bask in the favor of both Germany and the allies now and after the war, and yet he knows in his heart that he can't pursue such a course and get reward from the winners.

The generalissimo's dilemma is complicated by Spain's explosive internal situation. The leftists and the rightists are pulling against each other so heavily that they are rocking his dictatorial chair uncomfortably. And he has a deep liking for that chair.

Two Reasons

Franco started out the European conflict as a "neutral" but committed to give "all aid to the axis short of war." There were two reasons for this stand: he felt he owed a debt to Hitler and Mussolini for the support they gave him during the Spanish civil war of 1936-39 and, perhaps more to the point, Germany looked like a certain winner.

However, this changed and by the end of 1942 the non-interventionist, pro-monarchist army officers became the dominant force in the regime in place of the fiercely pro-Nazi portion of the Falange party. That really turned the Franco government in the direction of neutrality.

There were three main reasons for this change. One was that the odds on Hitler's chances of winning the war took a hard knock when America came in. Then, too, the United States had succeeded in lining up most of the western hemisphere countries with the allies, and Franco no longer could continue support of the axis without gravely damaging his relations with the overseas Spanish speaking nations, which thus played a major role in swinging Spain toward real neutrality. The third reason was that Spain still was shockingly weak from the effects of her civil war.

With passing time the Falange party has lost ground in Spain, and there has been a corresponding swing to the right in the direction of a monarchy and the old form of government. Naturally this has weakened Franco's position on the home front, and he is under heavy pressure from both the allies and Hitler as the belligerent powers line up for the last big battle.

"To me, the American way to meet the issue is to perfect a voluntary mobilization of effort, gather the information essential to solving the problem, correlate the facts and make them available to all concerned. From that point forward, reliance on the spirit of American cooperation and American ingenuity is the only recourse."

Rayburn said "sometimes I feel ashamed when some Americans despair the future of America," and he declared: "We can create an unparalleled period of prosperity and happiness."

"We should stop trying to be rich uncle to Latin America. We should insist that, according to their ability to pay, what we do for the nations of Latin America is matched, dollar for dollar, by what Latin America does for itself."

Butler said the "important fact" was not so much the amount of expenditures but that they "demonstrate what the present government of the United States apparently aims to do all over the world."

"In Latin America," he continued, "we have already found out what we are beginning to find out in other parts of the world, namely that money will not buy good-will and that the treasury of the United States cannot successfully be the agent for building our post-war world."

ACCIDENTS

OWI reported, the manufacturing industries had an accident-frequency rate of 20 per million man-hours — which means 20 workers killed or injured for every 500 employed.

Besides the physical loss to workers themselves, occupational accidents caused a total economic loss of $2,300,000,000 in 1942, according to the national safety council.

The dozen or more government agencies, private organizations and labor groups consulted in preparation of the report concurred, said OWI, in the finding that nine-tenths of all worker accidents could be prevented, despite wartime strains on machinery and worker fatigue.

Key Figure in Letter Case Now in Seclusion

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Interior Secretary Ickes' confidential aid, George N. Briggs, who has become a central figure in the "Harry Hopkins letter" case, was in seclusion today.

Briggs, 55-year old former newspaperman, was named by Senator Langer (R-ND) as the man who turned up a letter signed with the name of presidential adviser Harry Hopkins, purporting to carry Hopkins' prediction that Wendell L. Willkie would be the 1944 Republican presidential nominee. The letter has been branded by Hopkins, and others, as a forgery.

Until his suspension without pay on Tuesday, Briggs had the job of reviewing correspondence in Ickes' office. Handwriting experts have testified at a grand jury hearing on Hopkins' forgery charge, and two typewriters were removed from Briggs' office for examination, on Tuesday.

Seek To Compromise Muster Out Pay Bills

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Senate and house military committees undertook today to compromise a two-billion dollar difference of opinion over discharge payments to members of the armed forces.

The house cut senate allowances by approximately that total yesterday in a noisy session at which advocates of even higher payments were shouted down at every turn. Despite the uproar, final house action was unanimous, 387 to 0.

Where the senate previously voted discharge pay running from $200 to $500, the house voted $100 for men and women with less than 60 days service, and $300 for those discharged after a longer period. It also eliminated payments for officers with more than $200 monthly base pay, (limiting allowances to the rank of captain), where the senate had approved payments through the rank of full colonel.

Soldiers Want Ballot, Stars and Stripes Says

LONDON, Jan. 20—American soldiers in Europe and the middle east want to vote in the presidential election and the question of whether the state or the federal government controls the machinery is not important, says Stars and Stripes, U. S. Army newspaper.

Stars and Stripes, which conducted a poll of officers and men in the European theater, added the average service man, in emphasizing his desire to cast his ballot next fall, "would like it well understood at home that he wants no political manipulation to prevent that vote."

"Bandits at one o'clock . . ."

JOHN SMITH, Lieutenant, U.S.A.A.F., adjusted his throttles, nervously fingered the stabilizer trimmers, peered through the shattered windshield of a fluttering Flying Fortress, and thought grim thoughts on the way home from Berlin.

"Two motors shot out, five of the crew wounded, half the tail gone... and I've got to bring Baby home, huh? Nuts! Suppose we bail out right here—they say the Germans aren't too bad on prisoners—at least we'll still be alive—wonder what Mom is doing now..."

"Navigator to pilot . . . near the coast now, watch for enemy fighters . . . let's get home!"

"Pilot to navigator . . . don't you like it here?"

The intercom buzzed off. Cold sweat popped unnoticed on John Smith's forehead. Fighters! One Focke-Wulf would be enough—all ammunition spent, two motors gone...

Thoughts again. "We can't go down now—this is the year that's going to turn the trick, the one that counts—pitch in now and we'll all get home sooner—come on, baby, take us home!" The intercom crackled. "Bandits at one o'clock, Focke-Wulfs—lots of them!"

The communique merely said, "One of our bombers failed to return."

Over there, they know this is the year of climax—they won't fail us—will you fail them? Your job is simple—work to win the war, buy War Bonds regularly—and buy more War Bonds, at least one extra $100 Bond now. You'll get your money back, with interest. But right now you've got to lend it $200, $300, $500, all you can, for this is the climax year! The committee where you work is counting on you to do your part—don't fail!

In your heart, can you tell John Smith of a sacrifice that should stop you from buying more Bonds?

Main Facts About Securities Offered in Fourth War Loan

Series E U. S. government securities are offered to help supply the Fourth War Loan campaign now under way through Jan. 29. These securities, all under direction of the War Finance Committee organization in each Marion county township, are headed by Lynn J. Schoonover as chairman. Include the following:

Series E Savings Bonds
Series F and G Savings Bonds
Series C Savings Notes
2½ Per Cent Bonds of 1965-70
2½ Per Cent Bonds of 1950-52
1¼ Per Cent Certificates of Indebtedness

Salient facts about each of the types of securities offered in the campaign follow:

Series E Bonds

The series of so-called "People's Bonds" is probably the most widely held security in the world of which over 100 million pieces have been sold in the first three War Loan campaigns. From the standpoint of interest return, it is the least attractive of all the issues offered by the government and is not a good investment for the large concern and the small business and professional man. Over 11 billion dollars of these E bonds are now outstanding in the hands of the American public. Purchase of these bonds by any one person is limited to $5,000 maturity value ($3,750 purchase price) in any one year. For every $3 invested you get back $4 at the end of 10 years. They do not fluctuate in dollar value, and are never worth less than you paid for them. They are dated the first day of the month in which payment is received by an authorized issuing agent. They mature in ten years and the interest return is equivalent to 2.9 per cent, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. Bonds can be registered only in the name of: (1) one person, or (2) two persons as co-owners, or (3) one person and one other person as beneficiary. Owners may redeem bonds without notice at any time 60 days after the issue date at redemption values printed on the bond but redemption values and interest return increase with the length of time that the bonds are held. It is to the advantage of owners to hold them to maturity. The new issue prices and maturity values are: $18.75 for $25 bonds, $37.50 for $50 bonds, $75 for $100 bonds, $375 for $500 bonds, $750 for $1000 bonds, $3750 for $5000 bonds and $7500 for $10,000 bonds. The issue price is 75 per cent of the maturity value so that a $25 bond costs $18.75 and a $100 bond costs $75. Interest is computed on a semi-annual basis.

Series F and G Savings Bonds

These two issues are designed primarily for large investors and may be bought by all classes of institutions. Commercial banks accepting demand deposits may purchase to a limited extent. Owners are limited to $100,000 (or the price of other issues or a combination of both F and G in any one calendar year. Both series are dated on the first day of the month in which payment is received by the issuing agent and are redeemable on the first day of any month six months after the issue date, upon one month's written notice, at stated redemption values. Bonds are eligible as collateral for loans, nor may they be transferred. Each series may be registered in the name of (1) one person, or (2) in the names of two (but not more than two) persons as co-owners, or (3) one person with one other person designated as beneficiary, or (4) in the name of a fiduciary, or (5) in the name of a custodian of public funds, or (6) in the name of an unincorporated or incorporated body.

SERIES F bonds, issued at a discount, are commonly known as "12-year Appreciation Bonds." The issue price is 74 per cent of maturity value and they come in denominations of $25, $100, $500, $1000, $5000 and $10,000. For example, a $25 bond costs $18.50 and a $100 bond costs $74. The interest return is approximately 2.53% compounded semi-annually, if the bonds are held to maturity, with a lower interest return if redeemed at earlier dates.

SERIES G bonds, issued at par, are commonly known as "12-year Current Income Bonds." They bear interest at the rate of 2½% per annum, and interest is payable semi-annually by Treasury check. They are redeemable at the option of the owner at their redemption value any time after two years from the first day of the month in which they are issued, to provide for benefit of interest return if redeemed before maturity. Denominations are $100, $500, $1000, $5000 and $10,000.

Series C Savings Notes

The issue known as Tax Savings Notes may be purchased in unlimited amounts by any individual, partnership, corporation or other entity. They are designed primarily for the temporary investment of funds to meet federal income tax payments or for other short-term investment need. Denominations are $100, $500, $1000, $5000, $10,000, $100,000, $500,000, and $1,000,000. They are dated the first day of the month in which purchased and are due three years from the issue date. The interest return is 1.07% if held to maturity; lesser yield if redeemed for cash or rendered in payment of taxes at earlier dates. They can be presented in payment of taxes at any time during and after the second calendar month after date of purchase. They may be used as collateral for loans from banking institutions only, and may be redeemed, at par and accrued interest, after six months from purchase date, except if registered in the name of a bank that accepts demand deposits, in which case redeemable at par only. Funds invested in this security will reduce one's future tax load, earn a return as long as the money is invested and supply the Treasury with funds now to meet current war expenditures.

Certificates of Indebtedness

This issue will be dated Feb. 1, 1944, mature on Feb. 1, 1945, and yield 7/8%. Certificates will be issued in denominations of from $1000 to $1,000,000, and are in coupon form only. Commercial banks are requested not to buy the certificates until after the drive closes on Feb. 15. Because of their maximum liquidity, the certificates are recognized as an excellent investment for temporary employment of idle funds. They may be used by corporations with unemployed funds accumulating because of deferred maintenance, reduced inventories or inability to reinvest depreciation and depletion reserves, and by individuals and trusts with temporary accumulations of surplus funds. They can be used as bank loan collateral and are acceptable to secure deposits of public moneys. The certificates are not subject to call prior to maturity.

15 Year 2½ Percent Bonds

This is a new security and replaces the Ten Year 2% Treasury Bonds offered in previous war loan drives. The bonds will be dated Feb. 1, 1944, due Sept. 15, 1959, callable Sept. 15, 1956. They will be issued in coupon or registered form, at the option of the buyers, in denominations of $500 to $1,000,000. These bonds are especially designed for individuals, savings and loan institutions and corporations seeking a higher return than that obtained from liquid, short term government issues. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying federal estate taxes.

26 Year 2½ Percent Bonds

These bonds are dated Feb. 1, 1944, mature March 15, 1970, and are callable March 15, 1956. They will be issued in coupon or registered form at the option of the buyer in denominations of $500 to $1,000,000. These bonds are ideally suited for purchase by insurance companies and other large investors, corporate and individual, as well as by trust funds and estates. A special feature provides that they may be redeemed at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying federal estate taxes.

OUSTED UNIONISTS CHALLENGE LEADER

... Associated Press

... Jan. 20—Emmet B. ... as president of ... Rubber Workers' ... General Tire & ... challenged today ... whose leader de- ... and other union ... suspended after ... filed against them.

... dispute flared ... Harper reported ... from his office by ... ised him, "from ... are running this ...

... me that there had ... of the member- ... had been suspend- ... related. "I told them ... like so much rubbish ... at my business."

... he conferred with ... master, international ... in the absence of ... President Sherman ... and was assured ... the international executive group recognized him as local president.

Action of the insurgent group was attributed by Harper to the expulsion of 70 union members by Dalrymple for participation in a work stoppage in General's band room two weeks ago.

Dalrymple expelled the unionists for "willfully and maliciously violating" the company-union contract and the union no-strike pledge. They later were discharged by the company.

Ray A. Sullivan, former General local president and leader of the insurgent forces, said Harper, other union officers and three members of the executive board were suspended for:

Neglect of duty; failure to avert the band room situation; failure to determine responsibility for stoppages; refusing to abide by lawful mandates of the membership.

Harper said he advised the expelled members to prepare appeals and ask to be reinstated.

The distress signal "SOS" was first adopted officially for international radio use in 1906.

CRAWFORD COUNTY

BUCYRUS: Common Pleas—Sylvia E. Baughman granted divorce from Marshall G. Baughman on grounds of gross neglect. The plaintiff was given custody of minor children and the defendant ordered to pay $7 a week for support of the children. The plaintiff was given temporary ownership of household furnishings.

In the appeal of Hugh Ekleberry against David E. Sanford, carried to the Court of Appeals on error, the higher court has reversed the judgment and remanded the cause to the local Common Pleas court. The appeal was based on an alleged error of the jury in marking the verdict which showed a judgment of $5 instead of the $500 to which the jury agreed.

The plaintiff has been ordered to pay $50 in defense counsel fees within 30 days in the divorce action of Michael F. Bittnkofer against Wilma Bittnkofer, upon motion of the defense.

Pre-Invasion Secrecy Stressed in Censor Director's Message

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. [illegible]—Emphasizing the need for [illegible] everything helpful to the [illegible] forces of General Eisenhower [illegible] invading army," the office of censorship today called for a complete moratorium on "backstairs gossip and hair-line authenticity" in connection with the coming assault on fortress Europe.

Byron Price, censorship director, issued this note to newspaper editors and radio broadcasters:

"The coming invasion of Europe [illegible] confident security [illegible] by its greatest single responsibility. There is no [illegible] from the enemy that an invasion is in prospect, or that the British Isles will be used as a base. What [illegible] must be kept shrouded in [illegible] secrecy, complete and [illegible] ing. No American [illegible] make [illegible] and [illegible] duty of being first to disclose [illegible] and [illegible] troops [illegible] But no one should [illegible] for a moment that inconsequential disclosures are exactly analogous to the enemy as deliberate disclosures.

Points to Remember

"In your reference to the coming operation you are earnestly requested to keep in mind the code provisions against publication or broadcast, without appropriate authority, of

"1. Secret war plans.

"2. Movement of troops and troop, including movements or shifts of high officers and personnel known for special war activities).

"3. Allied or enemy secret weapons and equipment and counter measures of defense. Weapons and defense measures of the enemy are included because it would be to his advantage to know how good our intelligence is;

"4. International negotiations which concern military operations.

"Special precautions are necessary regarding information from abroad which bears on the invasion and involves any of the subjects listed above. No such information should be published or broadcast in this country if the enemy would be informed thereby. Information in the listed categories coming direct from a neutral or allied country but which might not be generally available in that country, should be submitted to the office of censorship before use. This restriction does not apply to material from enemy countries; material originating in the British Isles and cleared by British censorship; material cleared by allied military censorship overseas; or material which already has been published, sent by radio, or otherwise generally disseminated in any area abroad. The test should be, 'Does the enemy know this?'

Keep Within Code

"All speculation about the invasion should be kept strictly within the limits laid down in the codes and no device of speculation or prediction used to disclose restricted information. Bear in mind that it is always hazardous, in connection with future operations, to mention dates, even by month or season; or to point out the likelihood or desirability of a landing in one country or on one particular section of the coast; or to forecast how many troops or units will be employed.

"Opinion on these subjects should be labeled as opinions, and no attempt to set forth actual expectations of the high command should be made (except in case of formal official announcement) without prior reference to this office.

"The appropriate authority for any disclosure within the restricted list must be of absolutely unquestioned standing if security is to be protected. We need urgently a complete moratorium on backstairs gossip and hair-line authenticity regarding this critical battle. In case of the slightest doubt, consult the office of censorship. Let us have no black market on information so dangerous to American life.

"Recently the codes have been relaxed in several respects but in no respect which touches the fortunes of General Eisenhower's invading army. Please take no chances."

Tips on Use of Spices

ALICE DENHOFF

...n Spice Trade as-... that those cloves ...ailing for from ... soon be here. ...omes some oth-... which should be ... every cook. ... and ground, ... the market. Until further notice ½ is suggested that we substitute ¼ teaspoon of all-spice for each teaspoon cinnamon called for in a recipe. Anise seed, nutmeg, ginger, mace or cloves may all be used in most recipes calling for cinnamon.

Mexico is sending in more chilis to meet our growing taste for chili powder, but most of it is still coming from California. Lots of oregano, that fine herb with a flavor between marjoram and sage, is coming in from Mexico.

Use of Spices

Now for some spice tips to add flavor and interest to even the simplest fare. Nutmeg and a few droplets of lemon juice do right well for chunks of baked squash about to go to the table, and is nice for mashed squash, too. Use of oregano to season scalloped potatoes. Dress up a simple bread pudding with chocolate chips and a pinch of ground ginger, and make the pudding with enriched bread for greater nutritional value.

Cheese Chili Fondu

Use some precious ration points for snappy cheese and prepare a spicy Cheese Chili Fondu, a favorite with the wonderful cooks of Louisiana. To serve 4 toast 2 cups cubed bread and set aside until needed. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine in saucepan. Add 2 tablespoons flour and mix to smooth paste. Add one pint tomatoes (canned or fresh) and ½ cup of water. Cook, constantly stirring to prevent lumping. Cook until mixture is creamy. Add teaspoon salt, teaspoon chili powder and 4 ounces snappy cheese cut into bits. Stir until cheese is melted. Add 2 egg yolks, stirring as you add. Remove from heat. Beat 2 egg whites until light and fluffy. Fold into cheese sauce. Pour over the toasted bread cubes. Again fold together lightly. Turn into well greased baking dish. Set dish into pan of hot water and bake at 350 degrees F. for about an hour or until set. Serve hot, with a green salad.

For a novel touch with any meal remove meat from half a grapefruit and fill shell with a mixture of the grapefruit and celery well diced. Garnish with maraschino cherries and serve with a well spiced, tangy French dressing.

Wallace's Paper Irks Kentuckians With Jap Article

By The Associated Press

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 29 — An article sub-titled "Kentuckians or Japs" from Vice President Henry A. Wallace's Iowa farm magazine, "Wallace's Farmer," was presented to a joint legislative appropriations committee by a ruled group representing vocational agriculture in Kentucky yesterday.

J. O. Matlick, editor of the Kentucky Farmers' Home Journal, read passages from the article and declared that wires of protest were being prepared for dispatch to Wallace, Kentucky senators and representatives in Washington and other officials.

The magazine piece was published following a survey to determine if Iowa farmers would prefer Japanese-Americans or Kentucky mountaineers to relieve a labor shortage. Some typical answers were printed as follows:

"Japs couldn't be satisfied here. Our ways are too different. Kentuckians would blend completely with us in another generation."

"With a little more patience on our part we can teach the Kentuckians about Iowa farming. They may be mighty willing to learn."

"Let's give our American-born Japs a chance. They are more like us."

"If a local committee could pick the Kentucky farmers to do the jobs, they might work out all right."

"I don't trust the Japs, and I don't like Kentuckians. It seems we can manage if we get a little more machinery."

However, a tabulation of answers showed 40 per cent of the Iowa farm men would prefer workers from the hill counties of Kentucky to 10 per cent in favor of Japanese-Americans.

Lemon a Useful Cooking Flavor

By ALICE DENHOFF

Most housewives have sharp and unpleasant memories of that comparatively short period last autumn when citrus fruit was virtually unobtainable or very expensive. Together with our quota of oranges and grapefruit, we should make much use of lemon in the kitchen.

Surprise and please your family with a novel touch added to the breakfast pancakes. Butter cakes and squeeze lemon juice over, then sprinkle lightly with sugar. A little grated lemon peel adds piquant flavor. Grand on waffles and a nice change from syrup.

Tender young carrots, shredded, raisins, lemon juice and a bit of salt makes a salad to delight the family's sweet tooth. Shredded dates may replace raisins, and a sprinkle of chopped nuts is added delight.

For a wonderful sauce for that precious roast lamb joint, make a mint sauce by combining equal amounts of chopped mint, lemon juice, orange juice with a little sweetening of honey, syrup or melted jelly. Let stand for several hours before serving.

Lemon quarters provide that sour flavor that so many epicures demand with their baked beans. Aids digestion, too!

Serve healthful beets often. After cutting off tops to cook for greens, boil 8 small or 6 medium sized beets until tender. Pare off outer skin. Slice. Cover with juice of two small lemons and two oranges, sweetening with a tablespoon honey or sugar. Let stand to blend flavors.

Presidents Shift Strategy in Effort To Halt A's Tomorrow

"A change in strategy" is what Marion Harding's Presidents are pinning their hopes on for a display of victory over the hardwood terrors of the North-Central Ohio Athletic conference, Ashland High's Hilltoppers, at Thomas A. Edison gym tomorrow night.

Dewey N. Bohyer, the veteran pilot of Harding High's cage fortunes for 15 years, seems to be entering this engage in the truest confidence with his backfield and basket manager. About the only thing that comes out of Bohyer's training quarters, is that the deepest of dark formations of the Hardingites' repertoire is expected to befuddle the Ashland Aces beyond enough for an Orioning upset on the part of the Bobyerites.

No elaborate projection have been made concerning how to halt Ted Jacobs, the star of the luminous Ashland five, according to Coach Bohyer. Apparently this up-the-sleeve trick of Coaches Bohyer and Joe Petrich is designed to dispose of Mr. Jacobs as a scoring threat in addition to slowing down the fast-moving tempo of his capable mates.

Substitutions aplenty are slated to be made by Coach Bohyer tomorrow night. Maybe this is his big secret, but let's hope not. It would be nothing short of the worst sort of fifth column activity to let the cat out of the basketball bag and thus let Ashland in on how Harding expects to outscore them tomorrow. Recent clashes, especially games with N. C. O. teams, have seen a slight revamping of Bohyer's policy in respect to substitutions. Varsity service has been more or less equally distributed of late, at least much more so than for the opening Provident non-league games with Delaware Wilis, Columbus North, and the Bexley Lions.

Harding Still Underdogs

Regardless of the plan of attack and defense the Chief Executives put into operation against the invading horde of Hilltoppers, they will be underdogs in every sensible-minded cage augur's book. The A's have far too potent a scoring combination for anyone to give the advance nod to the locals. An average of 53.5 points a game for all nine 1943-44 contests up to this stage has been maintained by A. L. Buckner's Hilltoppers, who have held opponents to 36.2 markers each time on the floor.

Harding on the other hand, has been able to muster a comparable 31.6 points per tilt while holding on even 30-point defensive record, considerably better than Ashland's. However, the Toppers have on the whole met the stiffer opposition of the two rivals tomorrow night.

Results of the nine Ashland outings for this successful campaign have been: Ashland 31, Wooster 27; Ashland 40, Clearview 45; Ashland 54 Norwalk 31; Ashland 59, Lorain 42; Ashland 83, Galion 41; Ashland 59, Shelby 23; Ashland 37, Mansfield 48; Ashland 60, Mt Vernon 24; and Ashland 58, Bucyrus 45.

Harding meanwhile has posted four victories, over Delaware 32 to 14, Mt. Vernon 36 to 30, Shelby 42 to 31 and Galion 31 to 25. Prexy losses have been to Columbus North 31 to 29, Bexley 45 to 32, and Bucyrus 34 to 29.

The two Ashland setbacks have both been to non-league teams, good ones at that. Mansfield in recent games has shown up well against some of the best representatives of all sections of the state. The Tygers held the Newark Wildcats, 1943 state champs, to a 16 to 36 count, one of the closest of all Newark calls this year. Clearview, the other Ashland conqueror, is only a Class B school but ranks near the top, having put to shame some of the northwestern sector's highly-touted Class A outfits.

Seek First Place Tie

The Prexies will be gunning for a first place tie in the six-team N. C. O. loop with a win over the Toppers. The locals are tied with Bucyrus for second spot at three victories and one deficit while Ashland rules the league scene with four triumphs without a loss.

Responsible for 24.6 of the 65 point average Ashland has recorded in its four N. C. O. starts is Ted Jacobs, senior forward. He had his biggest night against the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets when he was good for 27 points. In all four loop contests he has been above the 20 mark. In all games up to this point, Jacobs has registered 174 points for an average of 19.4. His poorest showing was made against Clearview, when he was held to five points. This off-night has been largely to blame for the below-20 average for all games.

Jacobs, in addition to being a crack shot from almost any position on the floor, is a good team player and displays adeptness as a dribbler and all-around floor worker. Last season he showed himself to be especially deadly on tip-in shots at close range. His knack in scoring this type of basket was remarkable, at least for a junior in high school.

If Jacobs were the only Ashland player they had to worry about, the Presidents probably wouldn't be in such a dither, but unfortunately every member of the Ashland starting five is a distinct threat. Center Russell Geisinger, about the height of Harding Center Chuck Fazio, Guard Jack Harris and Forward Jack Schaffer, are all lettermen and have stood out as hard-to-stop cagers season-long.

Tomorrow night's varsity contest will start at 8 o'clock. No reserve game between the Harding and Ashland jayvee teams will be played, since Ashland does not carry two teams for trips of such distance. However, an intra-squad game, in which players from the ranks of Harding's Vice Presidents will participate, probably will be staged, beginning at 7.

Lincoln Park Diamond in Need of Repairs

When he was here last week fanning a then passive desire prevalent among sport men in this vicinity for more and better athletics into an active movement for enrolling Marion in the Ohio State baseball league, Joe Donnelly commented on this city's facilities being adequate for a professional team.

Apparently Donnelly didn't make a thorough inspection of Marion's Lincoln Park ball diamond before making such a remark. For if he had taken just one glimpse at the Lincoln diamond and grandstand, he would have been convinced that Marion has far from a first-class ball plant.

Most of the defects in the Lincoln park set-up could be remedied in a comparatively short time with the help of funds to be supplied by Marionites bent on having a professional team perform here this summer. These defects would be the bumpy, hazardous Lincoln infield, the poorly kept, weed-strewn outfield, the hole-riddled screen backstop shielding the concrete grandstand, and several others which would not require an excess of work on the part of employes of the club.

See About Lights

Donnelly assured Marion's special Ohio State league committee that lights could be secured from Charles LeCrone, president of the defunct Tiffin ball club, a member of the six-team loop when it disbanded in 1941. The committee was to go to Tiffin this week to see about acquisition of LeCrone's lighting layout.

But even with all these repairs and the addition of new fixtures for the North Side field, there still would be one big thing missing, something that would stand out like a bevy of bathing beauties on a South Pacific battlefield, namely: a top for the Lincoln stand.

Promoters of the Marion Ohio State team during part of the 1937 season should have good enough memories to recall the drastic decline in attendance toward the end of the campaign. No one major reason was given for this decrease in business but it can now be said that it was attributed in the main to the absence of a roof on the Lincoln stadium. Fans loudly voiced their disapproval of having to withstand the piercing, uncomfortable sun rays for a two or three hour stretch. It got to the point where only the baseball "nuts", as the extreme lovers of the game are sometimes called, would chance a sunstroke to see the Marion team perform.

Most Games at Night

Of course, practically all of the games in the league this season will be played at night. The sunshine element this will be eliminated for the most part. But there's still the problem of rain and it often does pour down like blazes before or during night diamond attractions. Certainly, there wouldn't be many baseball adherents who would want to witness a game under those conditions.

A problem of erecting a roof on the Lincoln stand would be met in finding the material and the labor. The expense shouldn't be much of a worry—plenty of Marionites would be willing to donate some money for the construction of the roof, if only for their own comfort in watching the games. Perhaps, a temporary wooden roof, for use only for a season or two, would suffice.

The standards for the addition of a top on the stand were built into the Lincoln concrete structure several years. With this foundation for the roof, the rest of the job shouldn't pose much of a problem.

The second meeting of Marion's baseball committee has not been definitely set, according to Chairman Wilson Tway. The meeting has been postponed pending the return of Chester Roberts, president of the Marion Reserve Power Co., to the city. His advice on the Marion lighting plant is desired by the committee.

Two of Shelby High's most dependable cagers, Bob Roberts and Joe Garns, have gone the way of most high school seniors, to the armed forces. They left for the Navy this week, thereby leaving a gaping hole in the Whippets' team which will be next to impossible for Coach Larry Swackhamer to plug. Shelby already has fared poorly in the N.C.O., winning only one game in four starts which puts the Whippets in a fourth place tie with the Galion Orangemen. Next thing you'll know, the tall man in the high hat will be beckoning Bob Perman, the Whippets' mainstay.

Teams With Most Players Likely To Win '44 Pennants

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—It is [illegible] safety [illegible] baseball [illegible] may have an important bearing on the 1944 pennant races—you may be hearing a lot about the 1943 Chicago Cubs, the Cincinnati Reds and the Washington Senators before the year is [illegible].

The way the Cubs [illegible] the club [illegible] the greatest number of players [illegible] the best chances of securing replacements when the [illegible] start marching off to the wars. And judging from what happened since last October plenty of them will go.

Right now, the Cubs, with 36 players on the active list, and the White Sox, with 35, are the best fixed. Washington, with 32 players now available, expects to fill its roster to the limit of 40 men before spring training starts and the Reds plan four additions to the 30 now listed.

As Washington's Clark Griffith pointed out, this year's squads differ from the usual spring training groups in that they're composed largely of slowed-down veterans and untried rookies.

In pre-war years most clubs filled their camps with the 40 men they are allowed under contract, plus a lot of minor leaguers who came in for trials. Only a few could reach that top mark last year and the totals ranged down to 23 men for the Phillies and 25 for the Yankees.

Most of the clubs would be glad to try out promising youngsters, but Brooklyn's Branch Rickey remarked: "Not many are the kind to take to a major league camp. Even some of the men we have now aren't too hot."

In the American league, the Yankees, Indians and Browns all have more men available now than when they started training last spring. But they won't predict that all of them will be on hand for training.

WOMAN BOWLS 300

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20—Marge Slogar, winner of three titles in last year's state bowling tournament, rolled a perfect 300 game in league competition last night. The 30-year-old war worker is the third woman in the United States to compile a perfect score this season. Miss Slogar won the singles and all-events titles and shared the state doubles crown in last year's state tournament.

Pearl Street Upsets St. Mary Team in Gra-Y Cage League

Despite an upset loss to Pearl Street's third place team, 22 to 10, at the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday St. Mary's five managed to ward off the first round championship in Division B of the Gra-Y basketball program. Glenwood copped the Division A flag last week.

While St. Mary was exchanging baskets with Pearl on the Y court Tuesday, Greenwood beat Mark Street 30 to 16, and Oakland edged Oak Street, 14 to 13, in games which ended the lid off second round play in the Gra-Y loops.

Center Leffler headed the Pearl Street upset of St. Mary with four baskets for 10 points while Forward Manion gathered four markers to lead the losers.

High scorer for Greenwood was Graham, center, with 14 points while Haycox collected 11 to pace the losing Mark team. Craft and Koffman each had four points for Oakland and Forward Homer had six for Oak in the third contest.

Marion Mewhorter, Y. M. C. A. program director and supervisor of the Gra-Y leagues, announced changes in teams participating in second round play. George [illegible] ingram has dropped out of [illegible] A with its place being [illegible] a newly formed Oaklet squad. Ginny has withdrawn from Division B competition and the vacancy will be filled by a [illegible] named No. 2 quintet.

Otterbein Rally Beats Favored Capital Team

By The Associated Press

WESTERVILLE, O., Jan. 20—Otterbein spurted in the dying minutes of its basketball game with highly-favored Capital university last night to tie the score and go on to win a nip-and-tuck Ohio conference game 53-50.

It was Otterbein's fifth victory in six starts. Capital's second defeat in eight games.

With four minutes to play, Dick Rich, Otterbein guard, made a two-pointer and was fouled. He converted the free throw to tie the score at 49-49.

Andy Vonovich then sank a long one from mid-floor, and Dale Wood sank a "sneaker shot" from under the basket to put Otterbein in the lead to end the scoring.

Jack Underman, Capital's lanky center, was high scorer with 23 points.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 — Following up prexy Abe Green's recent blast at Sammy Angott and Beau Jack for not having at least one of their world lightweight titles on the line in their fight here next week, Col. Heinie Miller, executive secretary of the National Boxing Association today pointed the finger at the promoters for staging such affairs . . . The colonel wisely figures that the customers can't be blamed for going to see a good scrap even if there is something ridiculous about the situation . . . It seems from here that the N.B.A. has a remedy in a simple declarative sentence: "The N.B.A. will consider this as a championship bout." . . . It might be a technical violation of the rules, but they're natural lightweighis and once they knew the title would be at stake, regardless of weights, the promoters, managers, etc. would get busy and make it a real championship fight.

One Minute Sports Page — Donie Bush will be back on the third-base coaching line at Indianapolis next summer, since he figured the Indians lost at least ten games last season when signals from the bench were crossed up . . . Joe Harris, Philadelphia's demon basketball handicapper, is the only expert we've heard of who picked Valparaiso to beat De Paul the other night . . . Sammy Baugh named one of his sons Todd, after passcatcher Dick Todd, and the other Davey, after little Davey O'Brien . . . now if he'll name his pinto George Preston.

Service Dept. — Add the Fort Lewis (Wash.) Warriors to the crack service basketball teams. They have Gail Bishop of Washington State, Hall Lee from Washington and Roger Wiley, tall Oregon center, plus a lot of other former college players . . . Anton Christoforidis, former light heavyweight champ who is striving for a rating as chief specialist (athletics) at the Bainbridge, Md., Naval Training Station, likely will be sent to a foreign base when his training is completed because of his knowledge of several languages.

JOE GORDON HAS NO PLANS TO RETIRE

By The Associated Press

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 20—Let's get it straight about Joe Gordon, who would rather be a shortstop than one of baseball's great second basemen.

He's not retiring. But he plans to be with the armed forces instead of the world champion New York Yankees in 1944.

That's from Gordon, for the record—to put an end to a lot of conflicting reports about his future.

The confusion is partly Joe's fault, partly some guys' who tried to second-guess the former University of Oregon star.

This is how it came about:

Gordon came home after the 1943 world's series and dropped a remark about hanging up his uniform. He added that he wouldn't be around for spring training. Then he went hunting in the eastern Oregon wilds, leaving the boys hereabouts to put their own interpretation on what he had said.

Some of Gordon's friends announced that the Flash was going to retire and, in less time than it would take Joe to steal second base, he was (1) fed up with the Yankees; (2) through with baseball for good; (3) starting his holdout campaign early; (4) going to stay on the Pacific coast and play minor league ball because he liked the climate; (5) mentioned as manager of the Portland Beavers of the Coast circuit.

When Gordon came home again, he had to start from scratch and explain things.

He believed—and still does—that the majors will fold in 1944 because too much manpower will have been drained by the armed services. Joe, who has two children—Judy 3½ years, and Joseph Michael, 1½—reasoned that he probably wouldn't survive the father draft.

Recently the Yankee ace announced his intention of enlisting in some branch of service, and now he thinks he may never play with the Yanks again. He may be too old when the war ends.

Central Junior High Edges St. Mary Five

Central Junior High school's basketmen edged St. Mary Parochial High school's ninth grade quintet, 23 to 21, in an overtime game last night on the Armory floor. At the end of the fourth quarter the score stood at a 21 tie, but in three minutes' overtime, Central took over. Jim Riley, Central center, who substituted for Captain Jim Nemes after Nemes had suffered an injury to his collar bone, made the only score in the overtime period to give Central its third victory of the season.

Central jayvees won the reserve contest over St. Mary seventh and eighth grades, 37 to 15. Players for Central were Mathias, Cudd, Russell, Dill, Cess, Pierce, Rea, Stuckey, Jividen and Booker. St. Mary men were Murphy, Maloney, Werley, Baidauf, Stuber, Weis and Cooper.

BUCYRUS COUNCIL STUDIES NYC OFFER

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Jan. 20—When the New York Central system made an offer of $32,000 to settle the shop controversy between the city and the company, the railroad stipulated that the offer would be held open until after the second council meeting in January, but council, at this meeting, decided it would make no decision until Feb. 15.

Although the resolution of acceptance of the offer was up for its final reading, council decided to give it three separate readings at three meetings and considered the reading at this meeting as the first.

The decision was reached after councilmen heard a series of protests from a delegation of shop and road men who attended the meeting and who told council they believed that once the city let go of the shop properties the company would move out of Bucyrus and close up not only its repair shops but its road terminal as well.

Prior to the protests the ordinance and resolution committee had reported favorably on all ordinances and resolutions up at the meeting, which included the shop resolution. This indicated that the body was ready to vote.

The offer of $32,000 is for a quit-claim deed to the company's property in settlement of a deed signed in 1892 whereby the city was to receive $50,000 and all of the properties and equipment should the company cease operation of the shops as principal repair shops between Corning and Toledo. This the company did 12 years ago when the city filed its original action.

The case has gone through the Ohio supreme court which has held that the city cannot force a company to do work that is not needed, but the court did find the deed to be a valid one.

SPEAKER DOUBTFUL OF BASEBALL IN '44

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Jan. 20—Tris Speaker, one of the original members to baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., is doubtful about the game's ability to operate this year.

Now a member of a local draft board, the famed Gray Eagle says he "would like to see baseball go on and if it can overcome the manpower handicaps there's going to be. But I'll have to be shown."

Speaker doesn't want anyone to think he's lost his enthusiasm for the game. He still goes to the ball park as often as the press of his steel business permits. He's also a fight, football and hockey fan. But he's pessimistic about the coming season.

"They played last year with a lot of 3-A's and a few 4-F's," he explains. "This year there won't be any 3-A's. The boys will either be 1-A or they'll be given 2-A or 2-B deferments because of jobs contributing to the war effort. If they leave those jobs to play ball they'll be 1-A so quick it'll make 'em dizzy."

The man who piloted the Cleveland Indians to their only world's championship in 1920 isn't one of those old-timers who believe present-day ball players are inferior to those of his generation.

"Sometimes I think big money comes too easily nowadays and so lessens incentive but don't let anybody tell you all the great ball players are dead."

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

CAROLYN'S body rose to a sitting posture as if a spring had been released in her back, and she caught hold of my arm with both hands.

"Goods news of Marion!" she cried, and her voice was almost a shriek. "You mean she's escaped? Where is she? Is she here? When can I see her?"

Her face was alive with joy. Then it suddenly altered to frightened misery.

"Oh, but I can't see her!" she moaned. "She won't want me to. She'll never speak to me again!"

Carolyn Fear-Stricken

She was twisting her hands together now, and her face was contorted with fear. I took the twitching fingers and held them closely, while I spoke with crisp decision.

"That is nonsense, Carolyn, and you know it," I told her. "But even if it were true, you have work to do in the next hour; work which may atone for some of the harm you have done Marion by your foolish conduct. So pull yourself together quickly, get up and change your negligee for a street dress. We're getting out of here in 10 minutes."

A look of stark panic came into here eyes.

"Not back down to that place where Rico——" she quavered. "I won't have to see him again, will I?"

See Friends

"I don't think so," I said. "But you may have to see some of his friends, if they're the ones who are holding Marion."

"Holding Marion?" she said. "But I thought you said——"

"I said there was good news of her," I said, with more patience of voice than of feeling. "I did not say she was free of those gangsters. But though she is surrounded by them, and is disguised as an elderly woman, she is in a public restaurant where we have been expecting her to come, and my father has all preparations made to rescue her."

"Oh!" The word emerged explosively from a gusty sigh of relief, and she slipped her feet over the side of the bed, then to the floor and stood up.

"Just so I don't have to see Rico again," she said, still with panic in her voice, "I don't care what else I have to do. What dress shall I put on?"

Must Be Ready

"One suitable for a quiet dinner in a restaurant," I decided. "You may not have to go inside, but I want you to be ready for that eventuality. Mary and I are wearing the same kind of clothing. How quickly can you dress? I'll explain all that I can on the way down."

"I'll be ready in five minutes," she said tautly.

Then her composure broke again.

"Auntie Madge, will you let me keep close to you?" she asked tremulously. "And where is Rod?"

I put a steadying arm around her.

"Of course you may keep close to me," I said; "that is, if you brace yourself, and get ready to face any emergency calmly. As for Ronald, he and Aunt Lillian are on their way to the restaurant. But, I must insist, Carolyn, that you hurry."

"Oh, yes, yes, I will," she promised feverishly and was as good as her word. In less than the five minutes she had promised, she was attired in a gown which could do for daytime or evening, and had redone her coiffure.

Will Get Hat

"I'll get my hat on," I said, walking toward the door. "I'll call you in a minute. I want to be sure no one is in there but Mary. That is what you would wish, isn't it?"

"Oh, yes! yes!" she said again. "I don't want to see anybody I don't have to."

I did not tell her that she probably would see several people who were anathema to her, but although I pitied her plight, I could not have the deep abiding sympathy which perahps should have been mine. I was conscious that like Mary I was harboring the conviction that Carolyn's folly had been the cause of Marion's frightful ordeal.

I opened the door into my sitting room cautiously, and Mary spread her arms wide.

"All clear!" she said. "I've sped Olina on her way, so where and when do we go from here?"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Japs' Eyes

Do you remember in the pre-Pearl Harbor days the common saying that all the Japanese were myopic and therefore could not compete in marksmanship with Americans and Europeans? That piece of misinformation is now definitely a casualty of the awakening we are having as to the fighting qualities of our enemy.

The anthropologists could have told us, indeed did tell us better, but apparently few listen to anthropologists when a war jingo is shouting and beating his tom-tom on the street corner.

One feature that deceived us and led us to our under-estimation of the enemy is the Mongoloid fold. This can be seen on the inner portion of the eyelids next to the nose. The eyelids of the white races at this juncture come together in a sharp point. Between them a small red knob juts out—a papilla lacrymalis which helps to divert the tears into the tear duct. In the Mongoloid races, on the other hand, the upper eyelid comes into the nose in a gentle curve covering the papilla lacrymalis entirely. This is the Mongoloid fold. It is due to a thickened eyelid partly due to a larger amount of fat in the orbit than the white races have and partly to different muscle implantation.

The American Indian has the same fold, and he was always supposed to be a pretty good shot.

The fold, and the larger amount of fat in the orbit, cause a narrowing of the peripheral fissure in the Mongoloid eyes. Measurements on different races show the average width of the palpebral fissure to be: Chinese, 26.6 mm.; Japanese, 28.9 mm.; Europeans, 30 m m.; Greeks 32.5 m m. This narrow slit also created the misapprehension of bad vision among the Japanese because it made the eyeball look flat.

The habit of wearing glasses among the Japanese is far more widespread than among Europeans and is ascribed to poor lighting coupled with much reading. Then the imitativeness of the Japanese plays a part—wearing glasses marks the individual as of a higher cultural level. Such ideas are not unknown among us. I have known many a young doctor to adopt a pair of window panes on graduation so he will look older and more intellectual. And then the European habit of the monocle is as close to pure affectation as one can get in this world. Nobody has one eye so badly distorted that it needs a lens, while the other is perfect. But the monocle gives decor!

The fact is that Japanese eyes are just as good on the average as those of any other race. Vision is granted to all mankind as an equal birthright. Training makes some tribes or groups more visually acute.

Again, rumor hath it that the Japs are relatively poor fighter-pilots because their habit of reading up and down has not exercised their peripheral fields of vision as much as in the white fighters who read across the page. But this is hearsay, and has not been scientifically tested. It would not be good practice to depend on it.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Jan. 21

THE planetary configurations for this period encourage the consideration and development of large interests in connection with superiors, high executives, and all organizations of a secret or closed nature, such as diplomatic, political or fraternal groups, where much wirepulling is to be done behind the scenes. Once this contact is satisfactorily established there may be quick and decisive quality, with forceful attack, although much discretion and sagacity of an undercover form. Sound intrigues, although of an irregular or extraordinary aspect should flourish, possibly inspiring public approbation.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which outstanding success and progress may rely on their definite ability to keep a secret or to act with subtlety and shrewdness in affiliation with behind-the-scenes groups. Superiors or those in power in such organizations have influence to reward or promote those whose confidence and peculiar talents may be of far-reaching or strategic importance. Prudence, secrecy, intrigue and intuition are the characteristics demanded for either public, political, diplomatic or other undercover objectives. Be discreet with writings, signatures and speech.

A child born on this day will have much subtlety, shrewdness and unusual abilities for success in politics, diplomacy or other confidential career.
